Scout's Honor

Tippy Burgess, his wife Maxine, and Kevin Richardson stand behind the headstone of Maxine's brother-in-law Elmer Malcolm Drew a WWII soldier who was killed in Normandy on D-Day. Since Kevin was a little Boy Scout, for the last 8 - 9 years, he has been standing next to Maxine on Memorial Day. Last year, when she worried that she may not be able to stand at her brother-in-law's grave much longer, Kevin offered to take her place when the time comes. Until then, he will stand by her side every Memorial Day.

Pedway removed

Move required as part of the high school construction project

BY DAN HALL
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON - The Pedway, a paved crossing through the woods that abut Concord Street and lead to the Wildwood School, has been removed as part of the overall high school construction project, drawing the ire of at least a few town residents.

Donald Onusseit, the Superintendent of Wilmington's Department of Public Works, told the Crier that the removal of the pavement was mandated as part of the new high school construction project. Since the new artificial turf field creates more impervious surface in the Ipswich River watershed, the town must replicate wetlands by removing existing impervious

Hull responds to Firefighters

Seeks resolution

BY DAN HALL
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON -

At Tuesday's Board of Selectmen meeting, Town Manager Jeff Hull replied to a vote of no confidence in the Fire Chief by the Firefighters' Union in late April. The union contended through a letter sent to the Town Crier and the Board of Selectmen last month that it believed their Chief, Edward Bradbury, had neglected certain life safety trainings, which could compromise the safety of firefighters. In front of an audience of firefighters and supporters, Hull read a letter addressed to William Cavanaugh, the President of the Local 1370 Chapter of the International Association of Firefighters (IAFF), validating firefighter concerns and offering a mechanism for communication and resolution.

In this letter, Hull expressed his appreciation toward Cavanaugh for taking the time to discuss the recent action taken against Chief Bradbury. Hull went on to stress that it is, "In the best interest of the town to de-escalate the tension at the fire department and to

Shriners honored

Shriners Honored by Selectmen

WILMINGTON - Selectmen honored the Aleppo Shriners for their efforts and voluntary use of the Shriners Auditorium as a staging area for the tremendously well-attended memorial service held at MIT for slain MIT officer Sean Collier last month. The board along with Wilmington Police Chief Michael Begonis and MIT Police Chief, and Wilmington resident, Michael Di Fava honored the group. Collier was allegedly killed by one of the Boston Marathon bombing suspects, setting off a massive manhunt in Cambridge and Watertown that ultimately resulted in the death of Tamerlan Tsarnaev and the capture of Dzhokhar Tsarnaev. No charges have been filed yet in Collier's death.

Di Fava offered a few words of appreciation toward Shriners as well.

establish a constructive dialogue to address issues that may exist.”

Hull further stated that it was important to remember that these “Are issues that occurred in the past and cannot be undone.”

Hull continued to write that he understood that Cavanaugh had agreed that a “reasonable level of training associated with programs required by the state Office of Emergency Medical Services (OEMS) had occurred.” A Safety Committee was established on April 8 to address specific concerns of Cavanaugh including such as fire ground training, Rapid Intervention Training, Accountability System training, and the establishment of guidelines for operating the tower truck. This committee, according to Hull, will have the ability to prioritize and discuss safety issues before going to the Fire Chief or Town Manager for consideration. According to Hull, “The recommendations may include budgetary, contractual, or capital related impacts, and will be evaluated seriously with a focus on safety and effectiveness.” Hull finished by saying that he believed it was the responsibility of the union and the chief to work together for the betterment of the town. The letter closed with Hull asking the union leader for any suggestions on how to go forward, with a promise of taking them seriously and working together to impact change. Mike Champoux stated that he had “total confidence in Mr. Hull to help mediate and improve this issue.”

Relay For Life Announces Entertainment & Activities

Dance, Music, and Comedy round out evening events

WILMINGTON - Relay For Life of Wilmington announced the entertainment schedule for this year's event, held June 14, beginning at 5:30 pm at the Shawsheen Valley Technical High School. Long time supporters are returning with better-than-ever plans for their time on “stage.”

After opening ceremonies, the entertainment begins mid-field with a performance by Wilmington Dance Academy. At 6:30 pm, dancers of various ages will perform to a variety of music sure to delight all who attend. The costumes, the flowing movements, and the smiling faces will fill the air with energy and serve as a perfect prelude to the rest of the fun-filled family celebration.

Next, for those who have wanted to try Salsa dancing, dance instructor Jennifer Earls, gives you the chance to dance like they do on “So You Think You Can Dance” and “Dancing with the Stars.” No partner or dance experience is needed. As a cancer survivor herself, Earls has found that Salsa and dance in general are beautiful ways to live in the present moment and to celebrate life. She hopes you'll join her for this fun experience.

The Jessica Prouty Band will be playing their fifth Relay For Life in Wilmington. From 9:30 to 11 pm, they will perform songs that range from current hits to covers of 70s rock to original music. This hard-hitting female-fronted group started in 2009 when they were all in high school. Guitarist Cody Nilsen, attended Wilmington High. The band has played all over New England, including the Lowell Auditorium for the New England Music Awards. What's more, they played Downtown Disney after winning a battle of the bands contest. They just released their single, Set Me Free, and their new CD is coming out later this year. After the Relay For Life, you can look for them at the Hampton Beach Seashell and at fairs around New England.

Another group to look for at the Relay is Two Cousins DJ & Karaoke. This year they plan on offering Karaoke for the fun and entertainment of participants and will be playing music at different times of the event. Two Cousins has supported the Relay For Life since the beginning and organizers are excited to welcome them back again this year.

Wilmington resident and professional stand-up comedian, Steve Bjork, will bring some of the finest comics in Boston to perform at 11:30 p.m. This entertainment for the teams spending the night has become one of the most popular events of the Wilmington Relay. These people share their talent and time for the fund raising cause, but they also love what they do, and it shows. Their energy is contagious. Laughter fills the night air. The performance is suitable for all ages, and it never fails to be fun for all.

In addition to the formal entertainment, there is a constant buzz of activity including, but not limited to, the Relay Fun Zone (open for more hours this year with new activities), and a new and improved more competitive late night Relay Races! Please join the community to celebrate, remember, and fight back against cancer. Relay is a heart warming and fun-filled experience. Teams camp out at the high school and members take turns walking around the track. Music, costumes and decorations set the mood. Each team has a representative on the track at all times during the event because cancer never sleeps. Children's activities and, of course, food are also part of the celebration. It's open to the public until 11 pm so whether you have a team or just want to come for the festivities, please join the fight against cancer. Unusual link between Whitey Bulger and Wilmington history

Church shenanigans by an old Wilmington lawyer

By LARZ F. NEILSON
Copyright 2013

WILMINGTON - A Beacon Hill church has received considerable attention this month after a raid by agents of the FBI and the IRS.

The Boston Society of New Jerusalem, a Swedenborgian church, owns an apartment building on Bowdoin Street, across the street from the Massachusetts State House. The church once had a Greek-revival building, but about 1960, that was torn down. In its place, they built an 18-story apartment building now valued at $30 million. On the first floor is the church.

About 10 years ago, Edward MacKenzie, Jr., who claims to have been an enforcer for Whitey Bulger, began attending services at the church and sweet-talking elderly members. Before long, he was on the board of directors and a trustee of the church. Then he was hired as the $200,000 a year manager of the church real estate property.

He has been charged with extortion, bribery, mail fraud and money laundering. It is alleged that he has been engaging in kickback schemes, hiring favored contractors at lucrative prices.

A parallel case at the same church about 70 years ago involved a prominent Wilmington lawyer.

Attorney John W. Hathaway was a member of the family that owned the Harnden Tavern for 125 years, and he was the last in the family to own it. He served on the Sarah D.J. Carter Lecture Committee for about 40 years and on the Wilmington School Committee for 12 years in the 1920's and 1930's. He also served as treasurer of the Boston church for decades, where he was a lifelong member.

It was during the 1940's that his house of cards began to fall. Exact dates are not yet known, but he was convicted of embezzling $30,000 from the church. There is a Jan. 15, 1945 newspaper clipping reporting that Hathaway, then 66, was disbarred. He died on July 30, 1948 at age 70.

For him to have embezzled $30,000, it is probable that the theft took place over several years.

The Harnden Tavern was once known as the Maria Hathaway house. Maria was a granddaughter of Dr. Silas Brown, who bought the tavern in 1818. He was the town doctor for nearly 45 years.

Maria was the second wife of Francis E. Hathaway, a Boston shoe merchant. F.E. Hathaway & Son was Boston's oldest shoe store when it closed in the 1930's. The Hathaways invented the first arch-preserver shoe. The store also provided footwear for the Boston Police Department.

The Brown - Hathaway involvement with the Swedenborgian church began in the 1840's. It is explained in detail in “Harnden Tavern Tales” by Alice Hathaway Dillaway, John Hathaway's daughter.

The Swedenborgians are a liberal Protestant church that follows a philosophy set down by Emmanuel Swedenborg (1688-1772), a Swedish physicist, philosopher and theologian.

Dr. Brown's family became friendly with a shoe merchant from Woburn, Hiram Colburn, who introduced them to the religion. Eventually, Colburn married Anna “Nancy” Brown, and they settled in South Boston.

The Brown family remained members of the Congregational Church, but also joined the Swedenborgians. In the days before the Civil War, the Boston church was heavily involved with the Abolitionist movement. It was this connection that led to the Harnden Tavern becoming a stopover point in the Underground Railroad.

Francis E. Hathaway came from Enfield, Mass., a town later taken for the Quabbin Reservoir. In the early 1850's, he happened into Colburn's shoe store, and was hired as a clerk. Colburn introduced him to the Swedenborgian church.

He also encouraged him to go into business for himself, which he did.

Francis married Lydia Carter, daughter of Eldad Carter, who lived on Shawsheen Avenue. Her sister Olive was the wife of Dr. Brown's son, Dr. Jonathan Brown of Tewksbury. Dr. Jonathan Brown died in 1867.

Francis and Lydia had two children, Francis T. and Hattie. During the great Boston fire in 1873, the Hathaways packed up and fled to Olive's home in Tewksbury. Lydia was quite ill, and in spite of loving care from her sister, she died.

It was then that Francis married Maria Brown, a niece of Dr. Jonathan Brown. Francis and Maria had two sons, John and George, both of whom went to Harvard. John became an attorney, and George a Navy medic. Francis T. Hathaway went into the family shoe business and continued it after his father's death.

Maria Hathaway died in September 1929, less than a month before the stock market crash that triggered the Depression of the 1930's.

John and Sarah Hathaway had lived in the Harnden Tavern, and it was there that they raised their two daughters, Alice and Charlotte. By 1930, Alice was a student at Radcliffe, and Charlotte was also in college.

With the onset of the Depression, John Hathaway, like most everyone else, faced hard times. It is probable that this is when the church funds began to leak.

The Hathaways had moved to 31 High St., although it is not clear exactly when. The persons listed book has John Hathaway at High Street in 1930, and back on Salem Street in 1933.

He was chairman of the School Committee during much of the 1930's. This writer's grandfather, Peter Neilson, also served on the committee at that time. Sylvia Neilson wrote that her father, Peter, was shocked and hurt to learn that the chairman had been convicted of embezzlement.

It is probable the scandal that cost the family the ownership of the Harnden Tavern. Mrs. Dillaway never mentioned this in her Harnden Tavern Tales, although she does say that the tavern was sold in 1943. But the sale took place during the time when John Hathaway found himself in trouble. One of the last family events in the tavern was the 1940 wedding of Alice Hathaway and Manson Dillaway.

When John Hathaway died, he still owned a large parcel of land on the east side of Woburn Street. After his death, it was sold to a developer, A.P. Rounds, who built a subdivision. It was named Hathaway Acres.

The scandal of the embezzlement does not reflect the heritage left by the family. At the time of his death in 1864, Dr. Silas Brown was a much-loved physician, known as “the iron man up Nod way,” Nod being the northern part of Wilmington where the tavern is located.

(Disclosure: This writer's parents were long-time friends of Alice and Charlotte Hathaway.)

TAP A 401(K) FOR A DOWN PAYMENT?

It may be possible to get money from a 401(k) plan to use as a down payment on a house—but it's not a good idea.

If you take the money as a distribution, you pay taxes—plus a 10 percent penalty, if you're under 59 1/2. That's a big bite. You may be able to take the money as a loan; many plans allow you to borrow half of your account balance or $50,000, whichever is less—but it's still not a good idea.

Payback on the loan will be in after-tax dollars, more difficult to come by than the pre-tax dollars originally contributed. And should you lose your job—or leave it—before the loan is repaid, it's considered a distribution. You'll owe regular income taxes on the loan amount, plus that penalty.

The most important reason not to take money from a 401(K) account is that you sacrifice tax-free growth. Money taken out now will make a big difference when you retire. What's the smart financial choice?

Community in the face of tragedy

This lackluster late spring, chilly, damp, and depressing seems a meteorological mirror of sorts of the kind of tragedy that has surrounded us for nearly a year.

September brought us Benghazi, where a local man from Winchester was killed half a world away in a terrorist attack - and rudely awakening the nation, albeit slowly, to the notion that we are not safe from terrorism despite two wars, thousands of our young adults dead in service to our country, thousands more returning injured sometimes inside, sometimes out.

Then came Hurricane Sandy. Late October brought the storm that, though it impacted many in our area, decimated our neighbors in New York and New Jersey. And we watched the news with horrified intensity, glued to the sets; hearts breaking for the mother whose children were ripped from her arms, and all the images of loss.

After the election in November, and the months of degrading negative political messages on nearly every front - federal, state, and local - we were sliding toward Christmas and family and comfort when a mentally ill man destroyed the lives of so many innocents in Newtown, CT. And we cried that day, wherever we were, as the news became worse and worse. And in Tewksbury and Wilmington, we held vigils, and lit candles, and prayed together for a little bit for the souls of those lost children and teachers, and for the families to continue on despite the pain remaining in the wake of the death of a child, a sibling, or a parent or spouse.

The New Year, maybe, we hoped would bring a new start, because we always want to refresh our world and cleanse the heartache of the past. But all was quiet.

Until April.

Then the marathon bombings, terrorists in our midst, educated by us, radicalized elsewhere somehow, destroyed the safety and peace of the Boston Marathon. More deaths of innocents by savage butchers. The resulting search for the suspects, and the death of Wilmington native, Officer Sean Collier. Another vigil, epic, extraordinary, unmatched comes to Wilmington. And once again our hearts break - but the community comes together, stronger now.

Just last week the EF-5 tornado blasted through Moore, Oklahoma, reducing a town, and a school, to splinters. Killing 24, including 10 children. More innocents gone. And once again we watch, voyeurs on the suffering of others, drawn in by horror, fear, and fascination. Our hearts breaking again.

The action oriented among us call for legislative action to stop all these tragedies. Gun control. Climate change. Hearings. Immigration reform. More hearings. Investigations. Welfare reform. Basement regulations. Safe rooms. Hearings.

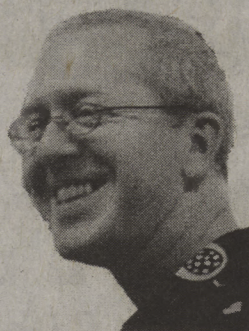

We cartwheel from one to the other to the other and we revisit each tragedy through the lens of the follow up - the efforts to stop tragedy in the future and the drive to make the world a better place.

I'm tired. Fatigued by loss. Driven to hide, to drop down and find my own safe room and slam it shut against the world. I think so many of us feel this way. Look at the reactions of parents at the Heath Brook Elementary School last week, panicked by an erroneous call and the sight of police in front of the school. It's understandable - we are connected with little tethers to each tragedy that we pinball between. Taking a piece of it with us, and leaving a little bit of ourselves back in that space and time, scared, sorrowful. We have a PTSD (Posttraumatic Stress Disorder) of sorts.

It's our communities that ground us, that give us hope, and it is watching communities recover that heals us, soothes that raw place at which each tether pulls. It's why I believe in communities, being involved, and knowing the people around you - those connections to the goodness in humanity remind us and restore our faith that all is not lost - even when everything seems so low.

At the Crier we chronicle the vigils, the fundraisers, the memorials, the investigations not only for crimes and tragedies in our area, but also those that engage our citizens, our students, and our families far and wide. We care about the outcomes and we support your efforts. Our hearts break when we write some of these stories, we occasionally cry over our keyboards, but we seek the good in this place, in these people around us every day. We look for those stories that tie us together in this journey of our lives, knit together through property, taxes, schools, elections, parades, moments of sorrow, moments of joy.

Beyond our town lines, though, we stand with Newtown, Moore, New Jersey, and with Americans far and wide tied together through our shared experiences, adversities and accomplishments. Serving overseas, serving at home. Recovering, beginning, studying, exploring, protecting, working, parenting, retiring... we stand together.

Heart Brake

by Scott Mullooney

A couple of years ago my wife was diagnosed with a heart condition called atrial fibrillation (A-fib for short). During A-fib episodes, your heart does not beat in a steady rhythm. One minute your heartbeat is too slow, the next it's too fast, and your blood is being churned like butter ready to send a surprise clot straight to your heart or your brain. And just when your body adjusts to this irregular pattern, your heart stops for a second, and your pulse returns to normal - until your heartbeat flip-flops and your pulse rate becomes irregular again. The problem is all this hopping, skipping and jumping takes a toll on your body, sapping your strength and causing dizzy spells during each transition back and forth. Medication enables most patients to resume normal lives. Except in my wife's case. Medication didn't help, so she was a candidate for surgery to permanently correct the problem.

The procedure to correct an irregular heartbeat is called "ablation". Such an innocuous sounding name. Rhymes with jubilation, celebration and graduation. Ablation involves lasers burning a series of trenches into the patient's heart muscle to intercept electrical signals when the heart decides it wants to beat erratically. The signal is stopped before it travels anywhere, and the heart retains its normal rhythm. Problem solved.

The surgery is performed by entering your heart through the main arteries on each side of your groin. A surgical camera on a wire is inserted into the left artery. The artery on the right is used for insertion of a laser scalpel that burns ridges inside the chambers of the heart. Insert heartburn pun here.

For the doctor, it's a routine procedure. He performs two of these operations daily. Comforting to hear, but my wife was still a little nervous. The risks were worth it to regain a normal level of energy. Imagine waking up every morning feeling like you here hit by a truck, and then getting yourself together enough to head out the door to work. By the end of the day, you can barely drag yourself home.

The day of the procedure, I accompanied my wife to the hospital and waited for her to be taken to the operating room. After countless signatures on all the proper forms and some informative explanations on exactly what would be done to her heart, she was wheeled into the cold, sterile operating room.

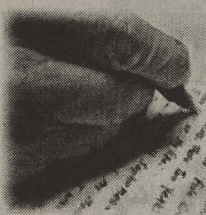

I went home to wait for the doctor's phone call hoping he would tell me everything went smoothly. Waiting for that call was the hardest part of my day. I thought I'd be able to get a million things done around the house while I anxiously waited for my cell phone to ring. I couldn't really concentrate on anything. Time seemed to move slowly.

I did some laundry, watched some news and waited. I must have dozed off because when I checked my cell phone screen it said I had one missed call. From the doctor, of course. Somehow I manage to miss every important call on my cell phone. I quickly pressed the voicemail button to hear the message. The doctor said, "Everything went well with the procedure." The words were music to my ears.

I couldn't visit my wife at the hospital until later that night. The nurses were kind enough to let me enter the cardiac ward after visiting hours ended. I was happy to find her awake and alert. I brought her a cheery Stop & Shop Get Well Floral Bouquet and an overnight bag of clothes to wear home the next day.

The doctors, nurses and staff of Massachusetts General Hospital are beyond compare. The attention to detail and level of care my wife received at MGH helped ease her mind during her post-operative recovery. In a few months we'll know if the ablation procedure worked. I hope it did. My heart can't take much more of this.

Special thanks to my wife, Priscilla, for letting me write about her medical conditions. I never have to worry about running out of material for my columns.

Teamwork Trivia night - "Wicked" successful!

Dear Editor,

On May 3rd the Northside PAC, which represents both the North Intermediate and Woburn Street Schools in Wilmington, held their second annual fundraiser called Teamwork Trivia Night with DJ Ed Mullen. The event was held at the Tewksbury/Wilmington Elks and sold over 250 tickets! Guests formed teams and dressed in themes for extra bonus points.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank those that helped to make this event possible by donating and sponsoring. A huge thank you goes out to: The Ruff House, Hair Designs, Gwen Lawson of RE/MAX Leading Edge, The Maselli Family and Dandilyons Ice Cream, The Cook Family and Cook's Simple Painting, The Santini Family and Mobil-on-the Run, and The Timmons Family and B.J. Doyle, Inc. all for sponsoring rounds of trivia. I would also like to thank those that generously donated prizes toward the event, The Santini Family, The Breen Family, Kathaleen Rooney-Gray and The Dance Company, Dr. Sevak Abrahamian, DDS, Keon's at Black Swan Country Club, Pizza Mia, and Soper Family Dentistry.

The Nothside PAC is proud to be donating a portion of the proceeds from this successful event. A donation of $1,000.00 was made to Classes 4 Classes, a program that was founded by Kaitlin Roig, a 1st grade teacher from the Sandy Hook Elementary school in Newtown, CT. This program allows K-5 students nationwide the opportunity to help other students by teaching them the power of "paying it forward". Classes 4 Classes teaches our youngest students to care for one another by allowing them to actively engage in social curriculum through projects that K-5 classes sponsor for other K-5 classes. For more information on Classes 4 Classes, visit www.classes4classes.org. It is a wonderful program that has come out of such unspeakable horror in Newtown.

A donation of $1,300.00 from a 50/50 raffle for the Sean Collier Memorial Scholarship Fund is also being made. The scholarship is for graduates of Wilmington High who plan to pursue a degree in criminal justice, law enforcement, or enter the military. The winner of the 50/50 raffle generously donated his half back to the fund!

The winning team known as the "Wicked Bomars" dressed in full superhero costumes and not only won a trophy for best costumes, but also took home "gold medals" and prizes for winning the trivia contest! Thank you to the "Wicked Bomars" ~ Gwen and Bill Lawson, Dennis and Karen Walsh, Bob and Heather Anderson, Kyle and Amy Bishop, Jack and Cecily Sullivan, and Mike Sullivan and Barbara Langone for being such great sports! Thank you also to DJ Ed Mullen from Teamwork Trivia for helping with the event again this year.

It was such a fun and successful evening! Thank you to all that attended!

At No. Woburn/Wilmington line - A great victory for the citizens of Woburn

To the editor,

On May 17, 2013 the Housing Appeals Committee ruled in favor of the city of Woburn on the 40B Ledges site. Woburn 38 Development's Motion for Summary Decision was denied.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank City Solicitor Ellen Callahan Doucette and Attorney Dan Hill for their due diligence in pursuing this matter, and Woburn Zoning Board of Appeals for taking the time to listen. Most of all a special thanks to the many residents including those city officials who attended numerous meetings to express their concerns to the ZBA.

Our fight continues because of the misery that will be generated if the Ledges proposal is approved. The revised plan is a modification to the original 40B permit that was approved by a Court Order in 2006. The modification request substantially changes the original project.

The differences include: an additional year of blasting (5 days a week), earth and stone removal of approximately 418,000cy and increased truck traffic of 32,000 truck trips.

Another concern that will affect surrounding residents is the storm water runoff from the project. During a normal rain event the 1042 Main Street location could have as much as 8" of water in front of a poorly designed state drainage system.

Our quest (the concerns of the residents outweigh the need for affordable housing) does not end with the Housing Appeals Committee decision. Woburn 38 Development, LLC still has options available. As your Alderman I will continue to monitor the situation and keep you informed of further action.

Banking on our students

Editor's Note: Senator Elizabeth Warren and Representative John Tierney submitted this column to local newspapers following its printing last week in the Boston Globe).

BY ELIZABETH WARREN AND JOHN TIERNEY

In June, high school seniors across Massachusetts will pull on their graduation robes and take pictures with proud parents, celebrating the end of high school and looking forward to a new beginning in college. But on July 1, they will get an unpleasant graduation gift from the federal government: the interest rate on new subsidized student loans will double from 3.4 to 6.8 percent.

These students and their families have worked hard, saved what they could, and borrowed what they need to pay for higher education. Rather than reward their efforts, the government plans to add to their burden. Students are already drowning in debt. With $1 trillion in outstanding student loans and many borrowers struggling to stay afloat, we cannot afford to let this happen.

When our students go on to higher education, it helps us all. No state knows that better than Massachusetts. We have the nation's highest percentage of adults with postsecondary degrees, and our highly-skilled workforce attracts businesses from out of state and provides the raw material to launch new businesses in state. Our highly-skilled workforce is helping our economy grow and recover faster than other states, which is why it is so important to help our students get a good education.

Some people say that we can't afford low interest rates for students. But the federal government offers far lower rates on loans every single day — they just don't do it for everyone. Right now, a bank can get a loan through the Federal Reserve discount window at a rate of less than one percent. The same big banks that destroyed millions of jobs and broke our economy can borrow at about 0.75 percent, while our students will be paying nine times as much as of July 1.

This is not fair. And it's not necessary, either. The federal government makes 36 cents on every dollar it lends to students. Just last week, the Congressional Budget Office announced that the government will make $51 billion on the student loans it issued this year — more than the annual profit of any Fortune 500 company, and about five times Google's yearly earnings. We should not be profiting from students who are drowning in debt while we are giving great deals to big banks.

That's why we introduced the Bank on Students Loan Fairness Act. The bill gives students the same deal that we give to the big banks by allowing those who are eligible for federally subsidized Stafford loans to borrow at the same rate offered to banks through the Federal Reserve discount window. For one year, the Federal Reserve would make funds available to the Department of Education to make these loans to our students. This would give students relief from high interest rates while giving Congress time to find a long-term solution.

Fixing the interest rate on new subsidized loans is only a first step in helping students who are drowning in debt. We must ensure that the interest rates on all student loans are as low as possible, and that struggling borrowers have options to help them avoid default. Congress will have the opportunity to address these issues next year when it reauthorizes the Higher Education Act. We will work with our colleagues to make student loans a fair deal for students rather than a profit center for the federal government.

Economists explain that banks need low rates because their stability is essential to our shaky economic recovery. But students are just as important as banks to a strong recovery. High levels of student debt pose a risk to our economy if students cannot pay it back. If the Federal Reserve can lend trillions to financial institutions at low rates to grow the economy, surely it can float the money that will keep student loan payments low, keep us competitive, and grow our middle class.

Unlike big banks, students do not have armies of lobbyists and lawyers. They're banking on us to do what's right. Let's bank on students by investing in their futures and giving them a break on student loan interest.

Senator Elizabeth Warren and Congressman John Tierney are co-sponsors of the "Bank on Students Loan Fairness Act."

Donna, prior to surgery in 2011

Donna in 2010

Donna in 2012

After one of her four sisters successfully underwent gastric bypass surgery in 2010, 51-year-old Donna finally realized that it was time to deal with her own weight issues. She had high cholesterol, high blood pressure that even two medications couldn't control, and she was borderline diabetic.

Donna underwent a relatively new weight-loss surgery called gastric sleeve gastrectomy in July 2011. Since the procedure, she has lost 90 pounds, with 40 more to go to achieve her goal weight. She's lost six sizes, her cholesterol, blood sugar and blood pressure are completely normal, and she walks for 40 minutes, four days a week.

"I'll walk by a window, catch my reflection, and stop and ask, 'Who is that person?'" Donna says. "I remember her, but she'd been gone for so long. It's not just about losing weight; it's about gaining back my life."

Fun on the Fourth Celebration for 2013

To our fellow residents:

As we finalize plans for the 33rd Annual Fun on the Fourth Celebration, we wanted to share some information about our 2013 events. This year's Celebration will run from Tuesday, July 2nd through Saturday, July 6th. Family Day will be on Thursday, July 4th and our Spectacular Fireworks Display will be on Saturday July 6th (Rain Date is July 7th).

This year's Celebration will not include a carnival. It will, however, include most other events which have become a part of Wilmington's "Fun on the Fourth" tradition. Members of the Fourth of July Committee have been working to add new activities during each evening of the Celebration to allow families to enjoy their time at the Common without the presence of the carnival. Information regarding events, meal tickets, concerts, participating groups and more can be found on our website: www.funonthefourth.com (Please check for updates in the days leading up to the Celebration).

The annual Fun on the Fourth Celebration is about our community and the Committee is delighted to have the participation of many Wilmington-based non-profit groups. These groups use the Celebration as an opportunity to raise funds for worthwhile causes in Wilmington including the Food Pantry, college scholarships, church and scouting activities, camps for children and other benevolent endeavors. Members of these groups volunteer their time and dedicate a great deal of it to preparing for and participating in the Celebration. Wilmington is not just a town. Wilmington is a community of people who support each other. The Fourth of July Committee hopes that this spirit will show itself again in residents' support of the participating community groups.

For 32 years, the Fun on the Fourth Celebration has been organized and presented by a group of volunteers. It is a group that is the same as the participating groups mentioned earlier - a Wilmington-based non-profit. We are not a Town Board or Committee nor are the members appointed by Town officials. While the removal of the carnival poses a significant challenge to the Committee's ability to present the Celebration that the community has come to know, we are excited about this year's events and we look forward to seeing everyone at the Town Common.

Sincerely,
Fourth of July Committee Members

Collier fundraiser

Wish to thank the Wilmington House of Pizza and the Wilmington Police Dept. on the recent fundraiser for the Sean Collier Scholarship Fund. Hope the idea of naming a wing of the new High School after Sean will be realized.

Ped-way changes unwelcome

Two thumbs down to the person/department within the town who thought removing the ped-way that connected our neighborhood to the Wildwood School was a good idea. You didn't just tear up asphalt. You removed easy access to the playground, basketball courts and tennis courts for the kids in the neighborhood. In this day and age where we are trying to get the kids active and off the computers, you have just taken a giant leap backwards. You have also eliminated a walkway for people who use it to walk to vote and get to the common using a sidewalk where there is not one at the end of Federal connecting to Concord street. Now if we want to walk the reconstructed wooded ped-way, we must cut through the woods and risk deer ticks. Please put the ped-way back.

June 7 get ready to rumble

Rotary Club Trivia Night is back

WILMINGTON - The Annual Wilmington Rotary Club Trivia Night is fast approaching, and tickets are going fast.

Trivia Night takes place on Friday, June 7, at the Wilmington/Tewksbury Elks Lodge. The evening will be hosted by Wilmington Trivia Master Harry Cunningham and Steve Bjork.

There will be added fun this year. Aggrieved by the decision of the judges? For a small fee, tables will be able to purchase marshmallows to hurl at Bjork as he sits defenseless in his stool. Best of all, any players who've felt aggrieved by a judge's decision will be able to bid for the chance to throw a pie into Bjork's face.

Cunningham is expected to survive the evening unscathed.

Put your brain trust together and join the fun.

Whether consisting of family members, neighbors, co-workers; Wilmington Rotary club wants your team involved. In fact, the Rotary is looking forward to friendly competition between subgroups. Banks vs. banks, restaurants vs. restaurants, families vs. families, law office vs. law office, service groups vs. service groups, and real estate agents vs. real estate agents - the potential is unlimited.

Teams will face three rounds of twenty-five questions. Topics will include sports, entertainment (music and movies), history, and a couple of Wilmington-specific questions as well. Teams will produce written answers on the provided score sheets. Scores will be tallied and the next round will begin. Running scores will be posted at the end of each round for teams to track their standings.

One team will walk away with the coveted Rotary Trivia Night trophy, which is valued at approximately $6.95, but is virtually priceless to whoever takes it home.

Best of all, the proceeds raised from the event will benefit Rotary Club scholarships for Wilmington students attending any high school and preparing for college.

The Rotary Club is the largest donor of scholarships in the Town of Wilmington contributing over $30,000 a year to graduating seniors. Over the years, the club has raised and donated hundreds of thousands dollars.

The fun-filled evening, which begins promptly at 7:00 p.m., will feature raffles and a cash bar. The cost is $100 per team, and all teams are made up of four people. Teams are encouraged to bring their own munchies.

Want in? Contact the Trivia Master, Harry Cunningham, at 978-657-7633.

Protecting Your Landscape from Wildlife Damage

BY MELINDA MYERS

They're cute, they're furry and they love to eat - your landscape that is. If you are battling with rabbits, deer, groundhogs or other wildlife, don't give up. And if you are lucky enough to be wildlife-free at the moment, be vigilant and prepared to prevent damage before these beautiful creatures move into your landscape to dine.

Anyone who has battled wildlife knows the frustration and difficulty involved in controlling them. Your best defense is a fence. A four foot high fence anchored tightly to the ground will keep out rabbits. Five foot high fences around small garden areas will usually keep out deer. They seem to avoid these small confined spaces. The larger the area the more likely deer will enter. Woodchucks are more difficult. They will dig under or climb over the fence. You must place the fence at least 12" below the soil surface with 4 to 5 feet above the ground. Make sure gates are also secured from animals.

Some communities allow electric fences that provide a slight shock to help keep deer out of the landscape.

Another option is the wireless deer fence. The system uses plastic posts with wire tips charged by AA batteries. The plastic tip is filled with a deer attractant. When the deer nuzzles the tip it gets a light shock, encouraging it to move on to other feeding grounds.

Scare tactics have been used for many years. Motion sensitive sprinklers, blow up owls, clanging pans and rubber snakes strategically placed around a garden may help scare away unwanted critters. Unfortunately urban animals are used to noise and may not be alarmed. Move and alternate the various scare tactics for more effective control. The animals won't be afraid of an owl that hasn't moved in two weeks.

Homemade and commercial repellents can also be used. Make sure they are safe to use on food crops if treating fruits and vegetables. You'll have the best results if applied before the animals start feeding. It is easier to prevent damage than break old feeding patterns. Look for natural products like those found in Messina Wildlife's Animal Stopper line. They are made of herbs and smell good, so they repel animals without repelling you and your guests.

Live trapping can be inhumane and should be a last option. Babies can be separated from their parents, animals can be released in unfamiliar territory, and trapped animals can suffer from heat and a lack of food and water. Plus, once you catch the animal, you need to find a place to release it. The nearby parks, farms and forests already have too many of their own animals and therefore they don't want yours.

The key to success is variety, persistence, and adaptability. Watch for animal tracks, droppings and other signs that indicate wildlife have moved into your area. Apply repellents and install scare tactics and fencing before the animals begin feeding. Try a combination of tactics, continually monitor for damage and make changes as needed. And when you feel discouraged, remember that gardeners have been battling animals in the garden long before us.

“Singing Trooper” May 31st; Foxwoods trip June 6; Benefit breakfast June 9

A very special note of thanks is extended to Dennis Sheehan and Maureen DiPalma for providing not only the parade float vehicles but the garage bay areas to assemble the Senior Citizen floats. Dennis takes the time each year to prep the flat beds for the parade as well as his equipment not to mention the time spent on Memorial Day. Thank you so much.

Of course we also need to thank all those who helped to assemble, create and decorate the Senior Floats this year. It was a inter-generation effort which took place on a very misty and cold Saturday. Great job guys!!! Last but far from least, our thanks goes out to the Town Parade Committee for all its efforts in planning and executing a very important Town event...the Memorial Day Services and the Parade.

The Historical Society will hold an event at the Tewksbury Senior Center this Friday evening, May 31st at 7:00 PM. Entertainment for this event will be the “Singing Trooper”, Sargent Daniel M. Clark. Admission is $8 for Historical Society members and $10 for others. This should be a great take.

The Upscale Consignment Boutique will hold its “Intake of Items” day next Monday, June 3rd from 2:00 to 6:00 PM. This is also a great time to browse the shop for new items and discounted items. Your support helps to fund the programs and activities at the Senior Center.

Departure for Foxwood day trip of Thursday, June 6th is 7:00 AM sharp. Sign up for the next trip to Foxwood on July 8th will begin at 8:15 AM on Monday, June 10th.

Mann named Senior of the Month at Shawsheen Tech

Matthew Mann of Tewksbury was recognized by Shawsheen Valley Technical High School as the Male Senior of the Month for April.

Mann is one of Shawsheen’s top health students. He plans to attend Florida Southern College in the fall and continue his education. He hopes to major in pre-med with a goal to someday be an emergency room or intensive care doctor.

Mann took additional steps toward improving his future this year, taking advantage of the school’s cooperative education program. He worked at the Blaire House of Tewksbury, working in the facility’s nursing home and assisted living units.

Mann admits that he planned on working in construction when he first attended Shawsheen, but the school’s exploratory program convinced him to try health.

“I really liked it,” he said. “I loved what I was learning about.”

Mann said his experiences at Shawsheen Tech also helped when he took an EMT class recently.

A well-rounded member of the student body, Mann is an honor roll student while also excelling in two sports for the Rams. In fall, Mann is one of the top runners on the successful Shawsheen cross country team and in the winter, Mann is a part of the wrestling team, which is always one of the state’s top teams. Last winter, Mann qualified for the Div. 1 state tournament at 132 pounds and was second at the state vocational tournament.

Academically, Mann also competed regularly in SkillsUSA throughout his high school career. Last year he finished fourth in medical terminology.

Reading Co-Operative Bank donates to the VNA

Reading Co-operative Bank has donated to the Visiting Nurses Association (VNA) of Middlesex-East and has established premium partnership with the organization. The VNA has a staff of 150 employees and volunteers that provide home healthcare and hospice care to the sick, post-surgical and terminally ill patients in 62 greater Boston communities. In 2003, they opened the Sawtelle Family Hospice House at 320 Haverhill Street in Reading to care for those who cannot receive end-of-life care at their own home.

"We are thankful for this generous financial support and are honored that the Bank is an advocate for our work and mission. As a long-time member of our donor family, the bank is an important part of our success in serving the community," says Merry Beth Rucker, VNA of Middlesex-East CEO.

Bank President Julieann Thurlow, who presently serves as President of the Board of VNA Middlesex-

East, stated, "I had the unfortunate opportunity to learn first-hand the tremendous value of at-home hospice followed by hospice house care. VNA Middlesex-East hospice workers have a unique compassion for their patients that extends beyond medical care which makes difficult end of life experiences to pass in the most dignified and peaceful way possible."

Reading Co-operative Bank is a dynamic, 21st-century community bank, founded in 1886 on the principle that profit and growth go hand-in-hand with responsible banking and service to the community. They are a 5-star bank that is rated in the top 7% of banks in the country for overall financial condition by Bauer Financial Customer Service Specialists can be reached at 781.942.5000, reading-coop.com or by visiting one of the locations in Reading, North Reading, Wilmington, Woburn and now in Andover and Burlington.

Brian O'Brien placed a wreath in the Veterans' Lot of Wildwood Cemetery with Joyce Eaton Dalton escorted by Eddie Williams. Joyce's brother, Ensign Ronald D. Eaton, was flying a Corsair when it went down on June 25, 1952 in North Korean air space. He died during his rescue attempt. His remains were never recovered.

Pedway removed

ous surfaces elsewhere, such as the pavement of the pedway.

Wetlands replication is allowed under Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) regulations in areas not directly adjacent to the turf field site, Planning and Conservation Director Carole Hamilton explained. As long as those replicated areas are within the watershed area, they do not have to abut the actual site.

The town also proposed wetlands replication in an area around Nathan Road and the storage facility in Town Park near Aprile Field.

The new field at the high school shares the same watershed as these proposed replication areas, though they are not adjacent properties.

Onusseit said that this was "Not a happy decision, not something we are happy about." He went on to say that the pedway had many uses, providing easy access to recreation areas and a shortcut for residence on those streets. "This was not an easy thing to do."

When asked if he had heard many complaints from residents or town members, Onusseit said that he "Had not heard much yet, but am expecting to."

When asked if there might be construction of a new pedway or similar type path, Onusseit stated that that would be impossible in the near future. He said that unless an alternative path was to become possible in the future, it seemed unlikely that it would be returning.

I-93 north resurfacing

advertised for the I-93 upgrade with a Tuesday, July 30 deadline for bids. The bids are billed as "resurfacing and related work."

The MassDOT already has "under construction" upgrades on I-93 underway on the Reading, Stoneham, Winchester and Woburn stretches billed as "maintenance and related work." Motorists can see the upgrading being done from time to time on this busy stretch of highway that is basically resurfacing on the east-west roadway.

Also, construction on resurfacing is still continuing in a noticeable fashion in the Burlington-Woburn stretch of I-95 (Rte.128) as it plods west from a hilly section in Woburn through a flat stretch in Burlington.

The state in recent days has also announced they are moving well into the "design" stages for a busy section of I-93 at Montvale Avenue and the approach from Montvale Avenue to I-93, including Central Street, for a stretch of 1,850 feet. The area has long been a contentious point for motorists who try to negotiate this busy roadway that includes Washington Street - a north/south road from Winchester through East Woburn to Reading and the busy Woburn Mall/Commerce Way area.

Also, the New Boston Street Bridge is still "on the list" as local state officials point out. The bridge connects Woburn to Wilmington off New Boston Street and state officials, including Lt. Governor Timothy Murray, have also been out to emphasize its importance to the area.

In recent days, the Woburn Business Association has also huddled with area business and political leadership on the overall, strategic issues that need to be addressed with the Anderson Regional Transportation Center being a focal point. No conclusions at the recent meeting at Woburn's Crowne Plaza Hotel have been formalized, however.

The Woburn Business Association and Woburn officials caught the eye of the Mass. Department of Transportation who sent Jeffrey Simon, the Assistant Secretary of Asset Development to Woburn two weeks ago to do an inventory and to gather thoughts from local officials on the next moves to be taken on the roadway schemes in the area.

Board of Selectmen round up

"When you are down you see who your friends are, the Shriners provided a huge area for police officers."

Officer Collier was posthumously sworn into the Somerville Police Department, according to Board of Selectmen Chairman Mike McCoy.

The Board also granted a one-day alcohol license to the Shriners for a benefit fundraiser for Transit Officer Donohue who was wounded in the hunt for the Boston Marathon bombing suspects. The $100 fee was waived because of the charitable nature of the event.

Peddlers and Hawkers Banned from Close Proximity to Fun on the Fourth

The Board of Selectmen voted unanimously to ban hawkers and peddlers from the one half-mile area around the common during the Fun on the Fourth this year. The ruling does not apply to area non-profit organizations, which will continue offering their wares, Mike Champoux also stated during the meeting that, "Fun on the Fourth has not been canceled." He went on to say that the event will be a much more Wilmington focused event now without the carnival, which will not be occurring this year.

Flag disposal ceremony

Frank West and Mike Bodnar, along with the Wilmington Minutemen, are going to teach the community how to properly dispose of their damaged American flags. Flag Day, June 14, is the annual day that this group collects unserviceable flags and ceremonially burns them. A ceremony will be held at the Minuteman headquarters behind the Harnden Tavern beginning at 6 pm.

The Minutemen have been hosting this ceremony for nine years. Bodnar was particularly exuberant concerning the event. "We have been doing it for a number of years, I get a kick out of having young kids come and instruct them in flag folding and burning. After two of three flags, kids are really into it."

There is a flag collection box at town hall, as well as at the post office for citizens to drop off their worn flags.

iPods for Wounded Veterans at Fort Belvoir

Stanley Dancewicz at the podium in Villanova Hall on May 19 during his Eagle Scout Court of Honor ceremony. Stanley thanked all of his family, friends and fellow scouts for their support and then specifically addressed all of the younger scouts in attendance, encouraging them to stay on their trail to Eagle. He was roundly praised and received a citation from the Massachusetts House of Representatives from Rep. James Miceli as well as citations from the State Senate and Town of Wilmington. Stanley received many letters of commendation as well including those from President Barack Obama and First Lady Michelle Obama, Rep. John Tierney, Senator Elizabeth Warren, and Secretary of State John Kerry. Stanley also received a U.S. Flag that was flown in his honor over the U.S. Capital building in Washington D.C. field trip. "This program has been alive and well in Wilmington for 35 years," Campbell said. "There is a different theme every day. Tiny Tots is great introductory program for children entering the Boutwell School."

Back by popular demand: Top Secret Science and Math for grades 1-5 at the Wilmington Arts Council. The full day, week-long program follows state guidelines for required curriculums. Children will complete many experiments each day under the instruction of an experienced and professional science teacher.

Aspiring scientists entering grades 6-8 can sign up for the Weird and Wacky Science Class, new to the schedule due to the success of Top Secret Science and Math. The week-long program will be held at the Shawsheen School Cafeteria. Students will learn problem solving, critical thinking and scientific reasoning. They will explore physics, simple machines, energy, crazy chemistry, science games and magic.

"Kids love it because it's all hands-on experiments," Campbell said. "We try to find recreational opportunities at reasonable prices. School programs have to be more structured now because they are MCAS driven, so we are trying to round out opportunities for kids to try some new things. They are fun-based programs."

Two sessions of Beach Volleyball will be offered at the Silver Lake beach. Grades 6-8 - beginner and intermediate players - can enjoy healthful, outside exercise in a beautiful setting. Class consists of 15 minutes of instruction followed by 45 minutes of team play. Classes are also offered for adults.

Campbell recommends viewing the recreation center's brochure for new day and overnight trips. "We also have discounted tickets for Canobie Lake, Six Flags and Water Country. You do not have to be enrolled in any programs to purchase these tickets."

Wilmington's Annual Fishing Derby is this Saturday, June 1, 9:00 a.m. - 12 noon at Town Beach at Silver Lake. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. in the Bath House. $2.00 for ages 17 and under. $4.00 for ages 18 and over. Prizes are awarded to contest winners. Only Shore fishing is allowed though, no boats. Fishing licenses are not required, but only during the June 1 Fishing Derby. Rain date: Sunday, June 2.

For further information on the Fishing Derby or summer programs offered through the Wilmington Recreation Center, call the Recreation Office: (978) 658 - 4270. To view the online brochure, visit: www.Wilmingtonma.gov. Stop in for discounted amusement park tickets at 121 Glen Road, Wilmington Town Hall, room 8. Hours: 8:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. weekdays. Non-residents of Wilmington are welcome to inquire.

Two Wilmington residents graduate from UVM

Wilmington residents Michael Manganelli and Nicholas L. Monteforte were two of 2,557 students were awarded a variety of bachelor's degrees during the University of Vermont's 211th Commencement ceremonies on May 19.

There were some 575 advanced degrees and certificates awarded by the UVM Graduate College and approximately 106 women and men took the oath of Hippocrates following the awarding of their M.D. degrees at ceremonies of the UVM College of Medicine.

Manganelli and Monteforte both received a BSBA in Business Administration.

Jennings takes home Division 3 discus title

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

PEMBROKE - Before this weekend, he had already built up an extremely impressive resume. Now he's added to that becoming a champion.

Wilmington High School junior Eli Jennings became the Eastern Mass Division 3 Champion in the discus on Sunday when he threw 146 feet even to outlast Tristan Hussey of Pembroke who threw 144-10 during the championship meet held at Pembroke High School.

Jennings, who is a three-time Middlesex League Champion between indoor and outdoor track with the shot put and discus, finished third last year in the discus at the same Division 3 Meet, while taking second in the shot put. Two years ago as a freshman, he didn't even qualify for the state meet in the discus and finished 20th in the shot put. On Monday he took the discus title and also finished fourth in the shot put throwing 50-02.75.

He is the first individual from WHS to win an Eastern best of him.

"During the competition, I was nervous," he said. "I had a pit in my stomach, and my knees were shaking. I was ranked second coming into the meet, and my friend, Joe Manson (of Danvers), was ranked first. He can throw the discus very far, but he can spin out of control sometimes. He fouled all three of his throws, which put me in first with my throw of 146 feet. I was nervous that someone else was going to throw farther than that, but no one did, which locked me into first and I won the discus."

Mason, who won the shot put competition with a throw of 54-06, finished second at last year's Division 3 Meet in the discus throwing 150-10, which was slightly better than Jennings, who tossed 148-08. Jennings said that he thought he could have done much better this weekend in terms of perhaps surpassing the school record of 162-10, but will certainly take the championship title.

"At first I was disappointed that I didn't throw as far as I

WHS Boys Lacrosse team eliminated

Fantastic season comes to an end

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

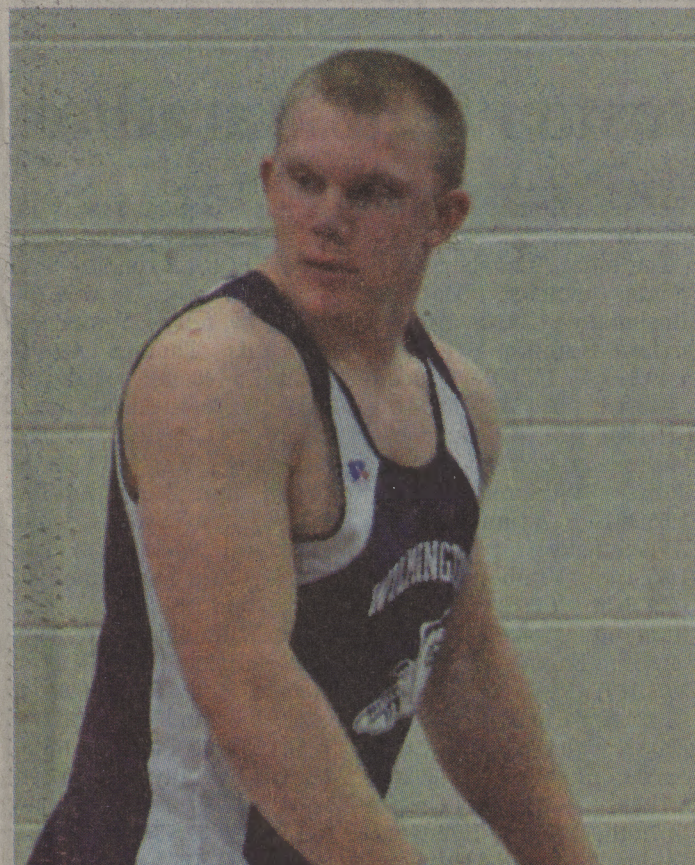

Much has been said all season long about the incredible turnaround the Wilmington High School Boys Lacrosse team has enjoyed this season. Before Tuesday's state tournament game, the Wildcats were 14-4 which is a year after finishing 2-14.

And while that is an amazing story, the effort the team put forth during a fantastic back-and-forth state tournament game was truly remarkable. But in the end, the No. 24 seed Holliston scored the game's final five goals to come away with a 14-10 win over the No. 9 seed Wildcats in a Division 2 Eastern Mass preliminary state tournament game played before a good crowd at the Woburn Street School.

Wilmington had a 10-9 lead in the first 90 seconds of the fourth quarter before Holliston buckled down on face-offs, possession, while working the ball around offensively and clamping down on shooting lanes limiting Wilmington's chances to come away with the win. Holliston advanced to the next round to take on Winchester, while Wilmington's magical season comes to an end with a 14-5 overall record.

"We had a fantastic season," said second-year coach Kieran Kavanaugh. "We were 2-14 last season and we were 14-4 this season playing (in the first round of the) playoffs. We played one hell of a game today. The Mass individual championship title since 2008 when Nick Farnsworth (javelin) and Mike Condell (800) took home titles.

"It is great to see Eli get the championship," said head coach Mike Kinney. "He is very deserving. Although he didn't throw his personal bests, he performed well under pressure. He is looking forward to going for the All-State title this weekend."

While he's been known mostly for his shot put skills which landed him 11th in New England this past indoor season, he has really made discus his number one event, and that was proven in this latest meet.

"Becoming a Division 3 State Champion in the discus has been one of my major goals since I started throwing the discus," said Jennings. "This (title) means the world to me and all of my coaches. I couldn't have done it without all the support I have from Mr. Kelley, Mr. Kinney, my family, and all my other teammates. I thank all of them for the support and advice they have given me."

Jennings admitted that he felt the pressure before the meet started and the closer it got to actually competing, his nerves were getting the

could have, but then I realized that I was under a lot of pressure and I stepped up to the plate, and threw as best I could," he said. "I was then was proud that I hadn't folded under the pressure, and I had won."

Besides the discus, Jennings also finished fourth in the shot put throwing 50-02.75 and he was pretty satisfied with that performance.

"I was under pressure in the shot too, but I handled it well, and I was just happy that I threw over 50 feet," he said. "I was in second the whole competition, until the last throw. In the finals, two other throwers jumped in front of me and knocked me into fourth. I was upset that this happened, but the top four have a spot at the all-states, so I was happy that I had made it there."

Jennings will now advance to this weekend's all-state meet and perform in both events the discus and shot put.

"I hope to work hard in this week of practice to improve my technique and throw even farther than I did on Sunday," he said. "My next goal for the disc is to break the school record which is 162' 10", which I am very close to. All I need to do is work hard and stay determined."

Wilmington High senior goalie Stanley Dancewicz played superb in the net on Tuesday including making this save during the team's loss to Holliston.

Two-time league all-star catcher ready for playoffs

Oliveira has grown up into one heck of a ballplayer

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Before, during and after games, you can tell that Cam Oliveira is a baseball player. Not a baseball player that puts on a jersey and trots out to the field, but a legit, real go get-'em baseball player. He warms up the way you are supposed to. He can catch, he can hit and he certainly can throw. He's intense on the field. He battles, he's tough as they come and he gives it positively everything he has. And when he comes off the field at the end of each game, his head is buried in sweat, his eye black has smudged all the way down and across his face and he's physically drained because he sacrificed his body for the love of the sport and more importantly for the love of his team, the Tewksbury Redmen.

This past week Oliveira was named a Merrimack Valley Conference All-Star for the second straight year. He's played four years with the varsity team, first coming on an outfielder and back-up pitcher, before settling in as the team's catcher the last two years. He's battled in state tournament games, has been on teams that have had losing seasons and now this week he's gearing up for what he hopes is a lot stretch of games remaining in his high school days before heading off to Southern New Hampshire University to play baseball and major in Business Management.

Until then, Oliveira and the rest of the Redmen team will take on the No. 2 seed Danvers Falcons in the first round of the Division 2 North Sectional Tournament on Friday night at Twi-Field beginning at 6:30 pm. Two years ago Oliveira came on in relief pitching in a wild and crazy 9-8, 11-inning game where Tewksbury was defeated by Danvers on the same field. That same time, two years ago, he was the same type of player talent wise, but maturity wise he might not have been where he's at now and perhaps that's the biggest reason why he has become an all-around complete legit baseball player today.

"Yeah I have grown up a lot," he said. "My freshman year I thought I knew everything about baseball. People say that your four years in high school goes by so fast and it certainly did. But I think I have grown up a lot and I have learned a lot not only about baseball but in high school too."

Several years ago Oliveira was a very talented player with a strong arm, terrific curveball but sometimes his emotions got the best of him. This year when the Redmen started off 0-7, you would think that emotions would get the best of him again but that was hardly the case.

"I think both Cam and Zak DiRocco have done a great job leading this team and it wasn't easy when we started off 0-7," said head coach Ron Drouin. "I'm very proud of the leadership that he's provided to this team. He does a whole bunch of things to help us win each and every day, whether he's hurt or not. He's just come a long way. He's really grown up a lot since his freshman year. He's becoming a better player and he's just a tremendously hard worker. He's a 12-month of a year baseball player. We got off to the rough start and he and Zak really did a nice job of keeping the team together."

Since that 0-7 start the team has gone 7-6 in the final 13 games including winning both games this weekend in the Lawrence Invitational Tournament, first topping North Andover before taking the host Lancers 8-7 in the championship final.

"I think the two wins will really help us," said Oliveira. "Well I hope it does. The two games showed what we can do offensively, especially in that second game. It's the first time in a while that we beat Lawrence so I'm hoping those wins will help our confidence a lot. We showed a lot of pride in those two games."

Pride he hopes will continue with Friday's game against Danvers. Oliveira, who has been battling a thumb injury on his non-throwing hand, will be back behind the plate to catch freshman Brett Morris, who will enter the game with a 4-2 record and his first taste of playoff ball.

"Brett has done even better than I expected him to do," said Oliveira. "I always had confidence in him but at the same time he had to get his feet in the water and the kid has showed so much resiliency. He has the capability of having a very good career. I think on Friday he's going to show people what he's made of and what kind of pitcher he really is."

In order for Morris and Oliveira and the rest of the Tewksbury team to pull out the upset over Danvers, the simple things need to be done.

"It's going to be a real good game," said Oliveira. "They have a tremendous coach and it's going to the same type of environment that we were in several years ago. We're going to be in a hostile environment on a beautiful field, under the lights with tons of people and against a very good team. It's what baseball is all about."

"We need to come to play for all 21 outs and play as hard as we possibly can. We need to play errorless ball and I know that's a hard thing to do but if we can limit our mistakes without them coming back to hurt us, I think we can beat any team."

But it helps having this kid in the line-up, batting third and catching.

"As a catcher, he throws the ball as good as anyone and thinks like a catcher should," said Drouin. "He has a real high baseball IQ. He has a real good rep with all of our pitchers. As a hitter he handles the bat very well no matter the situation. When he gets in a hitters count he puts a real good swing on, but if you need him to hit a groundball he will. His approach at the plate varies on the situation and he can just really handle the bat if he's hitting for power or putting down a bunt."

For Oliveira, he said that although he's playing the position that he loves, when it comes to putting on that Redmen uniform, it's all about just that, Tewksbury.

"I'm a baseball player and I love absolutely love the game," he said. "I don't care where I play, no matter where as long as it benefits the team the most and as one of the leaders on the team I try to show that. I have played pitcher, catcher, third and some outfield and I would play first base and I would keep the scorebook. I don't care as long as it benefits the team."

Spoken like a true baseball player. And that Cam Oliveira certainly is.

Track teams finish in the middle of the pack at state meet

By JAMIE POTE

HINGHAM - Only four individuals placed in the top seven of their respective events to score points for the Tewksbury Memorial High School Girls Outdoor Track-and-Field team during the Eastern Mass Class B Championship Meet held at Notre Dame of Hingham High School on Monday, two days after it was moved because of the weekend rain. Tewksbury finished in 14th place, as host Notre Dame of Hingham came away with the team victory.

The Redmen had a very average afternoon but that wasn't the case for one individual Chelsea Porcaro, who continues to add on to her incredible spring season. The junior, who is in her first season with the team, won the javelin with a throw of 117-07, which was significantly shorter than her tremendous 141-foot throw last week, but it was enough to win the event by a single inch. In addition, she took second in the discus, throwing 113-01.

Besides Porcaro, Tewksbury scored in the pole vault as Ashley Colarusso was fifth clearing 8-6 and Devin Kelly tied for sixth as she cleared 8-0.

"The 6.5 points in the pole vault were unexpected, but it was a great way for Devin to finish off her career here, and a great way for Ashley Colarusso to compete in her first state meet," said head coach John Byrnes. "They've done a great job working together all season, and Coach (Bill) Meuse has done a nice job with them in practice. Devin will be missed in that group going forward, but she did a nice job helping a number of the youngsters learn the event this year."

Junior Sara Semenza was seventh in the 400 meters coming across the finish line at 1:00.60.

"Sara Semenza ran hard in her quarter this afternoon, and she looked a little bit spent, so she ran on guts up the final straight and was able to put herself on the podium," said Byrnes. "That was a nice effort."

Jess Amédee didn't score but she was 9th in the 100-meter hurdles with a time of 16:38 seconds, ending her tremendous season which includes being the top hurdler in the Merrimack Valley Conference. Also competing were: Rachel Eatherton was 11th in the mile at 5:31.59; Lindsey Monti with a 12th place finish in the 100-meter hurdles at 16.74 seconds; Christine Jean Baptiste was 13th in the 100-meter dash at 13.43 seconds; Molly Robertson was 14th in the javelin throwing 91-10; Ashley Callahan was 16th in the 100-meter hurdles at 17.07; and Kelsie Bradley was 23rd in the long jump with a mark of 14-09.50.

Finally the team's three relay teams also competed as both the 4x100 and 4x400 teams finished 11th with respective times of 52.02 and 4:21.90, and the 4x800 team finished 15th with a combined time of 10:19.90.

"Our 4x800 team wasn't quite fast enough to score today, but we got a terrific anchor leg from Becca Davies," said Byrnes. "It was her first time under 2:30 in the 800 (2:29.5), and it was a great time to do it. We think she'll be running at Holy Cross next year, and any school would be lucky to have a competitor like that on board."

Davies finished up three athletic seasons at TMHS, including being the soccer team's goalie for the past four years as well as indoor and outdoor track.

Turning to the boys team, the Redmen had a pretty good day finishing in 9th place overall with North Attleboro taking home the team title.

"We scored 28 points and I thought our team performed very well," said head coach Bill Meuse. "We had season and personal best across the board. I am so proud of the way the kids performed today. Three of the kids will move on to all states and we are the only team in the state to have two high hurdlers qualify for All-States. The coaches and the kids should be very proud of the season they have put together."

The Redmen had a handful of student-athletes place in the top seven including Cory Cataldo who did it in two events, while, Eddie Matovu, John Fiorello, Ryan Bednarek and Brian Amaral also received medals on the day.

Cataldo placed fourth in the 400-meter hurdles at 57.70 seconds and then also was fifth in the 110-meter hurdles at 15.26. In addition he competed in a third event, the triple jump and was 12th with a leap of 40-05.25.

"Again Cory showed why he is the best athlete in the school," said Meuse. "He finished fourth in the 400 hurdles and then with a quick turnaround, willed his way through the 110-meter hurdle trials to get him into the finals. In the finals it still looked like he had heavy legs but he was able to put together an impressive race with an impressive time. Cory will just focus on the 110's next Saturday and hopefully with fresh legs he can do even more damage."

Matovu finished second in the 110-meter hurdles with a time of 14.89, which is now a school record.

"Last week Eddie made a statement and this week he made history," said Meuse. "Eddie broke the school record with his time of 14.86 which was good for second place. Eddie has made a tremendous effort to get himself into the best shape of his life and it showed today. I am really proud of him. Just like last week, this was another meet where he has had trouble breaking through. And like last week he came up big. Don't get me wrong Eddie is a great kid, but he sure does talk a big game and usually I would tell him to prove it. Let's just say, don't ever doubt Eddie."

Fiorello was third in the shot put throwing 51-07. He also competed in the javelin finishing 14th at 151-07.

"Not his best day, but John did what he had to do to get him into next week's competition," said Meuse. "This is just a speed bump. I think just focusing on shot put this coming week will help him at all-states. Don't get me wrong placing third at a state meet is nothing to be disappointed in, but knowing John, he would want to have done better."

Ryan Bednarek was 6th in the pole vault clearing 10-06 and the final place finisher came from Amaral, who was 7th in the mile at 4:31.67.

"Amaral ended his career with a terrific race to place seventh," said Meuse. "Brian has given this program so much and I'm glad that he was able to run his best race of the season at the state meet."

"The race basically summed up his career with us as he left everything on the track. After the race there was no 'I wish I did this or that'. He ran his race and did his very best. I am going to miss his heart and competitiveness."

Senior Cory Thomas, who has had two tremendous seasons with cross country and indoor track as one of the state's top distance runners, was held out of the meet with an injury, thus ending a tremendous three-athletic seasons for the future UMass-Amherst runner.

Just missing out on placing include Andrew Nguyen in the pole vault, as he was 8th clearing 10-06, but fell back in the place standings because of misses, while Michael Charbonneau was 10th in the same event as he cleared 10-feet.

"Ryan (Bednarek) was able to beat out Andrew (Nguyen) because of attempts," said Meuse. "These two are very promising sophomores, and to be able to place at a state level meet is a great accomplishment. The sky is the limit for these young vaulters. The crew that we have in this event is one of the best I have ever been around and I have seen some great vaulters. I really believe this group has great potential and it's up to them if they want to tap into it. I believe today's meet left them wanting more and I know they will put into the work to be able to do great things."

Kevin Jones tied for 9th in the high jump clearing 5-10. Also competing include: Steven DeFrancesco in the shot put (11th, 46-01), Blake Hery (18th, 1:00.80) and John Saunders (22nd, 1:01.72) in the 400 hurdles; and Roy Felix in the long jump (24th, 18-00.50), while the 4x100 relay team, finished 11th with a combined time of 45.58.

Tennis team ends solid season

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Considering the team entered this season with no seniors and with just one returning player with varsity experience, getting one win would have been a victory. But for the Tewksbury Memorial High School Girls' Tennis team, they ended their season this past week with an astonishing 5-11 record.

"Considering I only had one player return this year with varsity experience, this was definitely a year to have as many players as were capable to play some varsity matches," said head coach Mary MacDonald, who guided the team to a MVC Division 2 Co-Championship a season ago including a state tournament appearance. "Eleven girls played at least one varsity match. We had some illness and injury issues as well. I was pleased with the good effort put in at practice and in matches, and we had several close losses that could have been wins. We also have nine

JV players working just as hard and I expect to have a much stronger team next year.

"I encourage the girls to continue to play tennis through the year, as that will only help them to improve. More and more members of the team are joining indoor tennis programs in the region, and that helps the players to improve their strokes as well as their game strategies."

Last week, Tewksbury ended its season with three matches, first beating Lawrence 4-1, before losing to Notre Dame Academy 4-1 and then topping Newburyport off with the same 4-1 score in the season finale. In the win over Lawrence, Lauren Joseph and Haley Tiernan won in straight sets at second and third singles, while the tandems of Emma Hyberts and Lindsey Andella and Deena Tsaosis and Brianna Higgins also won their doubles' matches. Kylie Sedgwick lost a tough match at No. 1 singles.

Two days later the Redmen took on NDA with all matches played inside at the Nashua Swim and Tennis Club due to rain. Sedgwick beat a very good opponent in Mary Cate McCarthy to record the team's only win.

The next day, Tewksbury traveled to play Newburyport and again all of the matches were played inside at the Newburyport Racquet Club. Sedgwick won her match in straight 7-6 and 6-3 sets, and Haley Tiernan had a very gruesome match winning 5-7, 7-5 and 10-4 match tiebreak.

Then at doubles, it was Andella and Hyberts winning in straight 6-2 and 7-5 sets, and then Tsaosis and Higgins made a great comeback after a tough first set loss to come away with a 2-6, 6-2 and 14-12 match tie break decision.

"We finished the season 5-11. We don't have any seniors to lose so with some hard work by the girls in the off-season, we should be on very solid ground next year for a strong season," said MacDonald.

Wildcats fall in championship game of annual tournament

By JAMIE POTE

The Wilmington High School Baseball team ended its season by reaching the championship game of the annual Dick Scanlon Memorial Day

Tournament, falling to a solid Chelmsford squad, 4-2. The Wildcats defeated Salem 6-4 in the opener played on Saturday.

The 1-1 week of play ends Wilmington's season with a 7-13 overall record, as the team came three tough luck losses away from qualifying for the state tournament for another year. Overall it was an up and down season for the 'Cats but that was expected with the team being so young.

"We finished 7-13, not something that we hoped for at the beginning of the season," said head coach Aldo Caira. "Even though we lost ten seniors from last year's Middlesex Small School Division championship team, we thought that with the key players coming back that we had, we were thinking that a ten-win season was possible. When the bats started out cold and the losses piled up it was just too much to overcome.

"But the positive part of the season was that we did play better as the year went on. We had more wins in the second half than we did in the first half and if with that experience the younger kids got from it, a good summer league and we should be ready to roll next year."

In the 6-4 win over Salem, senior Tim Woods picked up his second win on the season as tossed a complete game, giving up just one earned run on six hits, while he walked two and struck out nine.

Salem struck first for a run in the top of the first before Wilmington tied it up in the home half. Senior Jeff Favuzza started the rally with a walk and he stole second and then advanced to third on a balk. With two outs, junior Mike Curtis reached on an error to score Favuzza to tie the game up at 1-1.

Wilmington added two runs in the bottom of the second. Junior Brendan McDonough led off with a single and he stole second. He then advanced to third on a single by Corey Stillings. A wild pitch moved both runners up a base including McDonough crossing the plate and then Stillings scored on a RBI hit from Ryan Carroccino.

In the top of the third Salem scored three runs on four hits to take a 4-3 lead. But again Wilmington came back in their next at bat as Evan Raffi singled in Jackson Gillis and McDonough drove in Mike Curtis with a sacrifice fly and Wilmington retook the lead at 5-4.

The final run came in the bottom of the fourth as Carroccino led off with a walk, stole second and scored on a RBI single by Woods. He then went to work retiring 11 batters in a row, before giving up a lead-off single in the top of the seventh before retiring the next three batters to notch the complete game victory.

That win pushed Wilmington into the championship game against Chelmsford where they were the visiting team after losing a coin flip. Freshman Jackson Gillis got the start on the mound and tossed the complete game, going six innings, giving up three earned runs on seven hits while walking three and striking out eight.

Gillis certainly pitched well enough to win but the 'Cats stranded many runners on base with six through the first three innings including the bases loaded in the third. Chelmsford took advantage of that and some defensive miscues as the Lions scored three runs on three hits and an error in the bottom of the third.

Wilmington trailed 3-0 until the top of the fifth when they were able to score two runs. With two outs and the bases empty Curtis singled to center and scored on a RBI double by McDonough. Stillings then beat out an infield single to score McDonough with the second run, cutting the deficit to 3-2 but Chelmsford added one run in the sixth on two hits and an error. McDonough reached base with his third hit of the game, but was stranded there to end the game.

"That's the second year in a row they beat us in the finals," said Caira. "Last year we lost 5-2 and the year before that we beat them in the first round 4-1. We ended up stranding ten runners on base (on Monday). Even though we had nine hits on the day it seemed we put most of our runners on with two outs and just couldn't come up with the clutch it we needed to win. They battled hard though which made me very proud of them. They never gave up and as I told them. Even though we didn't win, I know that they left everything they had on the field and they should be proud of that."

Mike Curtis, Brendan McDonough and Tim Woods were named to the All-Tournament team and this past week both Jackson Gillis and Woods were named to the Middlesex League All-Star team.

Woods is one of four seniors, along with Jeff Favuzza, Colin Doherty and Billy O'Connor to be leaving the program.

"What can you say about four guys did everything you asked of them on a team that did not make post season," said Caira. "They played hard to the very last out and as far as my captains were concerned I couldn't have had any better."

Doherty was out all season long after suffering a knee injury during the basketball season.

"When we lost Colin for the year, it hit the team pretty hard," said Caira. "Colin was one of those guys who practiced hard, played hard and expected his teammates to do the same. Even though he couldn't play and I know how much that ate him up inside, he was at every game, supporting the team, offering advice and you could feel him wanting the guys to make the plays or get a hit."

"With that kind of compassion for the game, when that knee gets healthy there will be no stopping him in whatever sport he chooses to play in college."

O'Connor was another guy on the team who really strived with the team aspect.

"He may be not one of the names people read in the newspaper each week but none the less as important for our team as the others was Billy O'Connor," said Caira. "Billy was a class act for our team. He only appeared in six games but never once complained of playing time. About three games into the season I noticed how he would study the game, watch and learn. I asked him if he could handle the job as our third base coach, not as easy as one might think. He did that with one thing in mind to help our team. More than one of our wins this year can be contributed to him. He knew his teammates, knew when to send them or hold them and that got us and saved us more runs than we should have had."

The last two seniors, Woods and Favuzza will be two guys who'll be sorely missed for not only playing in every inning of every game in pivotal positions, pitcher/shortstop and outfield, but two guys who provided tremendous leadership.

"It was just like having two assistant coaches with them around," said Caira. "We were able to bounce ideas off each other. I was able to go to them and tell them that they needed to get the team to do certain things and they responded without blinking an eye. Their leadership on and off the field help mold this team from individuals to one. I couldn't have asked any more out of a set of captains. If any future captains can look at how they led and even come close to that in the years to come we will be a better program from it."

Losing just two starters from a team that won seven games this season certainly gives the future a lot of hope.

"We will only lose three seniors from this year's team and although they will be hard to replace, it will be a lot easier replacing three than it was replacing ten this year," said Caira. "Two of our three pitchers will be back in Curtis and Gillis. The other three guys who pitched also received some valuable time on the mound. McDonough who will be back for his fourth year will get a hard look at becoming our number three starter next year and Joe Scurto and Devin Field -- both sophomores this year -- will be a year older, stronger and have the varsity experience from this year to make them a valuable piece to our puzzle.

"As far as position players, Stillings will be back for his fourth year behind the plate. The duo of Field and Jimmy Davey at third and Gillis and Curtis at first will be back. McDonough will be back in center field and Raffi in right with a possible move of Carroccino to left. That leaves us with two very important positions to fill at short and second, but with a good group of up and coming kids on our freshmen team it will give a lot of guys a chance to compete for playing time.

"And not to mention our utility guys who will be back as seniors including Vinny Poil, Alex Pizette and Jimmy Murphy, I'd say competing for the league title again in the next year or two is not out of the question."

But before that happens, Caira said reflecting on this season is certainly a positive memory for the veteran coach.

"This was just such a great group of guys to coach and to represent Wilmington," he said. "They did it with pride and humility. Even though we weren't able to defend our championship or make the state tournament, there's no other team that I'd rather do battle with that these guys. I hope they learned a little something about the game and had fun doing it because I know I did."

kids played hard, they left it out on the field and that's all we can ask for. As a coaching staff we are proud of the kids and how they represented the town of Wilmington and we're looking forward to taking that next step."

two gems late in the third quarter, the first off the stick of Mitchell DeAmbrose.

"Their goalie is really good and there's no question about that," said Kavanaugh. "We were getting our shots and getting our looks and he was making scored three and Scott Manganelli, DeAmbrose and Joey Marino had one each.

This loss ends the careers of 12 seniors including tri-captains Eric Jaeschke, Kennedy and Priem, as well as fellow seniors Justin MacKinnon, Andrew Morris, Brooks Carter, DeAmbrose, Mike Silva, Danciewicz, Kevin Dunfey, Arthur Papastathis and John Campbell.

"We have a big senior class and it's going to be sad to see them go," said Kavanaugh. "A lot of them are going to play collegiately and we'll be checking out how they do, going to their games and rooting them on and we wish them success. And the seniors who won't be playing in college will be working on their grades and working on getting their degrees so we'll be sad to see them go but happy that they will be taking the next steps in their lives."

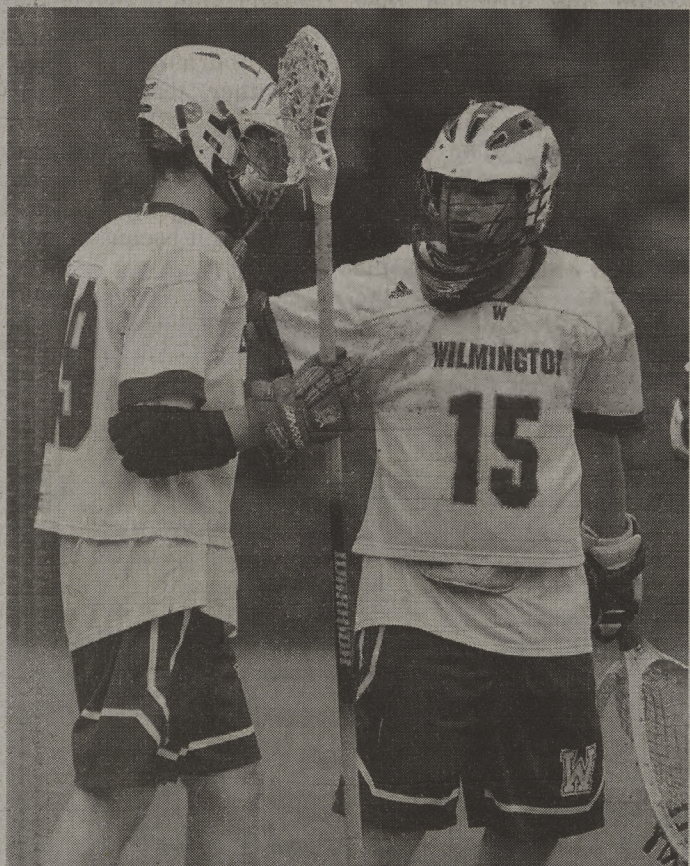

The coach is hoping that the program will continue to take steps forward despite the loss of 12 players.

"Taking that next step is how we got here which is working hard and making yourself better in the sport," said Kavanaugh. "These guys play in the summer, they work hard in the winter with wall ball and hitting the gym and they know doing things like that is what it takes to make it to the next level and make it past the first round of the playoffs. But they'll work at it. We know they want to work hard and there's no doubt from anyone on this coaching staff that they will get there."

the saves. I just think (the fourth quarter came down to the fact that they) were making plays. I don't think it was any individual on their team, I just think it came down to them making plays. They put together a good team lacrosse style and it worked for them.

"I don't think there was one point in the game where we gave up and that's how we went up by a goal. Holliston kept on fighting and just kept on fighting and they came out with the win. They are a good team and they deserve it."

As good as Nash was so was Wilmington's goalie Stanley Danciewicz, who made nine stops, including several real strong stops in the first half. Offensively, Kennedy led the way with five goals while Brian Priem Holliston started out strong taking a 4-2 lead after the first quarter and then went up 6-2 with 8:06 left in the second before Wilmington really poured it on in the final eight minutes of the second and throughout most of the third quarter.

The Wildcats outscored Holliston 4-1 in the final 8:06 of the second quarter to trail 7-6 at the break before holding a slim 3-2 edge in the third quarter to tie the game up at 9-9.

Then Ryan Kennedy scored his fifth goal of the game coming with 9:30 to go but after that it was all Holliston, including No. 22 Paul Beling who scored the next three goals giving him five on the day. Meanwhile Holliston's goalie Jon Nash played exceptionally well making ten saves including

Forty locals complete Boston Half Marathon

A total of 40 locals from Wilmington and Tewksbury completed the "Boston's Run to Remember Half Marathon" race held on Sunday. Wilmington resident Julie Tucci was the top overall local finisher coming in 77th out of 6,391 runners with a time of 1:26.46. The top Tewksbury finisher was Leonardo Medina, who was 429th overall at 1:37.54.

Youth Lacrosse offering scholarships

The Wilmington Youth Lacrosse Association (WYLA) is proud to announce that for the fourth year in a row, the WYLA will be offering two academic scholarships in memory of Paul "Scotty" McDougall, a coach, friend, and founding member of the Wilmington Youth Lacrosse Association. These scholarships are worth $1000 apiece and will be awarded to two graduating seniors in the class of 2013 that will be enrolling in an accredited college or university next fall. There will be a boys' and girls' scholarship offered to former Wilmington Youth Lacrosse players. Scholarship application information can be found on the Wilmington Youth Lacrosse Association website at www.wilmingtonlax.com

When the scholarship program first began, the WYLA offered $500 scholarships until Scotty's wife, Sheila McDougall, offered to match the scholarship to double the value of each scholarship.

The application deadline is May 30, 2013. Awards will be made on the basis of merit, academic performance, and school and/or community service. In order to be eligible for the scholarship, the applicant must meet four initial criteria. First, they must be a high school graduate in the class of 2013. State Tournament Girls Lacrosse action

Hornets sting early and often to end Shawsheen's season

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

MANCHESTER -- The Shawsheen Tech Girls Lacrosse team had a truly outstanding season this year, winning 11 straight games to close out their regular season and finish with an 11-4 record heading into Tuesday's first round Division 2 North tournament match-up with Manchester-Essex.

Unfortunately for the number 13 seed Lady Rams, they were unable to keep up with their fourth seeded opponents as Manchester-Essex ended Shawsheen's season with a 17-3 victory.

The loss ended Shawsheen's season with a record of 11-5 while Manchester-Essex improved to 15-2 and moved on to the quarter-finals where they will take on Ipswich.

"They were a really good team," third year coach

Maggie Joyce said of her opponent. "They connected on their passes and made some great shots. Overall their skill level was just better than ours."

Joyce also felt that her team may not have played their best game against their more talented opponents, making it even more difficult to overcome the difference in skill level.

"I had told them before the game to really take the gloves off and go all out because we had nothing to lose," Joyce said. "But I think we forgot how good we have gotten. Instead of transitioning the ball up field we had one person bringing the ball up and you just can't win that way."

Meg Ferguson, Emily Irwin and Tewksbury's Kelsey Farraher were the goal scorers for Shawsheen, while Kait Fulton made eight saves, but it was not enough for the Lady Rams to overcome their powerful opponents.

Despite the loss, Joyce was proud of her team's effort in the game as well as throughout the season where they overcame an 0-4 start to finish with 11 straight wins.

"I told the girls that the score did not reflect what our season was like or how far we have come as a team," Joyce said. "I feel like we have a good young team and we have some good athletes coming back next year. I thought they played with a lot of pride and I was very proud of them"

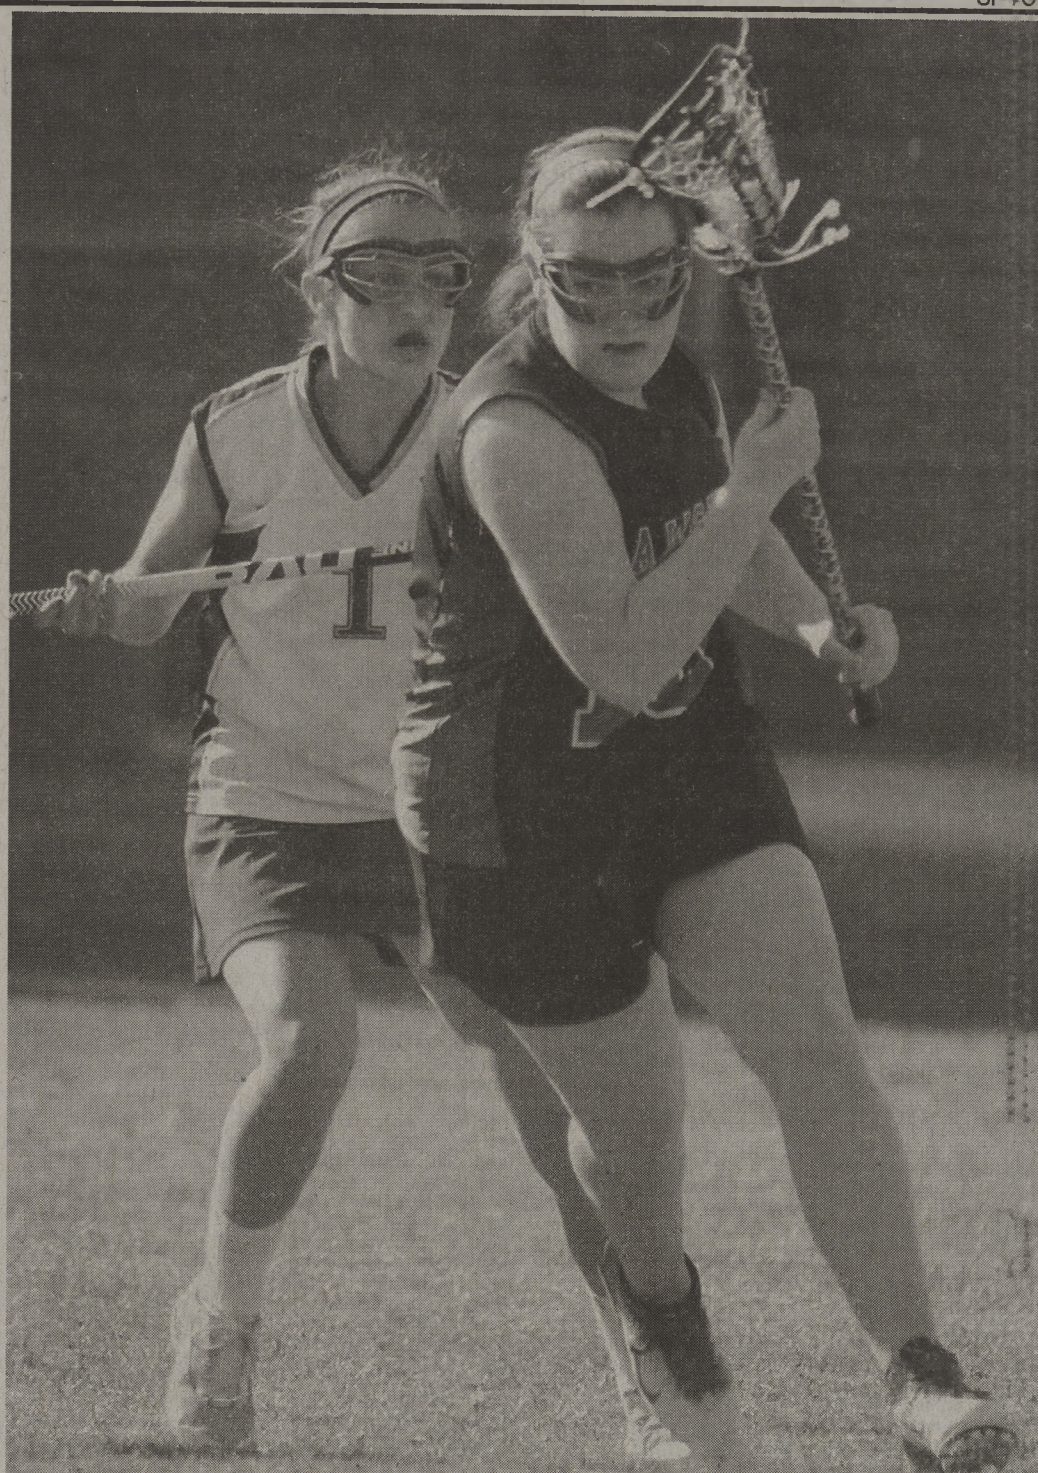

One of the things the Lady Rams will have to contend with next year and every year is the huge step up in competition that they face in the state tournament compared to their regular season schedule.

Shawsheen is currently an independent team, but there is a movement afoot to start a new vocational school league including Shawsheen and several of their rivals from other sports, many of whom just started their lacrosse programs in the past two years and were on the Shawsheen schedule this season.

"I would like for us to play a tougher schedule during the season, but it is hard with us trying to get a new league started and playing these new programs in a lot of our games," Joyce said. "If you look at our schedule it just does not compare to some of the teams in the tournament."

Whoever the Lady Rams are playing next season, they will be doing so without their three senior captains from this season as Kelsey Farraher, Kaitlyn Gordon and Kait Fulton will all graduate. They will be gone from the program, but hardly forgotten by Joyce.

"These seniors were sophomores in my first year coaching," Joyce said. "They had been with the team the year before when they did not have a good season, but they stayed with it and helped change the program. It is very sad to me that they are the last group that knows what it was like before and what the program has become. It will be very hard to replace them. They will be missed."

Shawsheen Baseball team draws Bedford

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

BILLERICA – It's been a season of unexpected success for the Shawsheen Tech Baseball team, as the Rams, with just one starter returning from last year's CASC championship team, went a surprising 9-9 during the regular season to secure a spot in the Division 3 North Tournament.

The Rams, the No. 15 seed in the sectional, will begin tournament play this Friday afternoon at 4:00 when they host No. 18 seed Bedford (8-11) in a preliminary round game.

The teams have split a pair of meetings this season, with each team winning on the other's home field. Bedford came out on top in the Rams third game of the season by a score of 2-1 back on April 9 in Billerica, and the Rams returned the favor on the Buccaneers home field on May 18 with an 8-2 victory.

"We spit during the season so we are two fairly evenly matched teams and that should make for a very good tournament game," said first year Shawsheen coach Brian McCarthy. "I don't think facing each other before gives either team an advantage. There is no fear of the unknown going in because we know each other pretty well. Each team knows what the other can do."

One thing that does bode well for the Rams is that they won the rematch with Bedford later in the season, as they were clearly a much different team in the second half of the season than the first, as many of their players got their first taste of extended varsity play.

"I think we definitely improved over the course of the season," McCarthy said. "I think we knew that would happen going into the season because we had such an inexperienced team. Over the last five games especially we have been playing much better baseball and our defense has been a lot better."

As for who will take the mound for the Rams against Bedford on Friday, McCarthy was non-committal. Senior lefthander Mike O'Hearn pitched in both games against Bedford this season and pitched very well, but McCarthy has equal confidence in his other two pitchers, Matt Lucia of Tewksbury and Pat Gallagher.

"I am not sure who we will go with yet," McCarthy said. "Mike pitched great against them in both games so that is a factor, but you hate to have a team see a pitcher three times in a season. Mike has been great, but as I have said all year, I don't see us as having a number one pitcher. It is more like 1A, 1B and 1C. We are confident in all three of them."

If the Rams are able to get past Bedford they will take on No. 2 seed Bishop Fenwick on Sunday at 4:00 in Peabody. The Crusaders are coming off a huge non-league win over a very good Danvers team.

Lady Rams awarded No. 1 seed

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

It was a historic week for the Shawsheen Tech Softball team, as they wrapped up a perfect regular season with a win over CAC rival Lynn Tech on Friday afternoon to move to 20-0 for the first undefeated regular season in the history of the program.

But the Lady Rams will be looking to make even more history in the coming weeks as the begin play as the top seed in the Division 3 North Tournament on Sunday afternoon at Shawsheen against the winner of the preliminary round game between No. 16 seed Boston Latin Academy and No. 17 seed North Shore Tech.

With their outstanding regular season, which included a pair of blowout wins over North Shore, it would seem to be a fairly safe bet that the Lady Rams will win their first round game and advance to the quarterfinals, but Shawsheen coach Maureen Buckley knows that nothing is guaranteed in the state tournament.

"I learned a long time ago that you can never go into a tournament game being too confident," Buckley said. "Anything can happen. As far as North Shore goes, you never want to play a team a third time. There are no secrets at this point. And I am sure Boston Latin also knows a lot about us."

More important than any opponent the Lady Rams face, Buckley knows that the most important thing for her team will be how they play, as they have shown all year when they are at their best, they are obviously very difficult to beat.

"It is really a matter of executing," Buckley said. "If we execute like we are capable of we can compete with anybody."

If Shawsheen is able to get past the winner of the Boston Latin/North Shore tilt, they will likely face Matignon on the quarterfinals in a rematch of last year's first round game won by Matignon by a score of 6-2.

Matignon, of the Catholic Central League enters the tournament with a 14-6 record, but that hardly matters, as they entered last year's tourney with a record of 12-8 and went on to win the sectional tournament. They will face Lowell Catholic in the first round of the tournament on Friday.

Buckley knows that Matignon is likely waiting in the wings, but you won't catch her or her team looking ahead.

"If both teams win I am sure our girls would like to redeem themselves against Matignon, but that is a long way off," Buckley said. "We have to win. They have to win. I have no intention of worrying about them or Lowell Catholic until we get past our first round game."

Shawsheen already got a small taste of post season play this past week when they hosted Blackstone Valley in the semi-finals of the Massachusetts State Vocational tournament.

Unfortunately for the Lady Rams, they were not able to keep their undefeated record intact, dropping a hard fought 7-6 decision as a furious seventh inning rally fell just short.

Shawsheen found themselves in a 5-2 hole after two innings and still trailed 7-6 heading to the bottom of the seventh before mounting a three run rally in their final at bat.

Jamie Ray of Tewksbury belted a two run homer to pull Shawsheen within 7-5, and when Tewksbury's Meghan Walsh lashed an RBI single the Lady Rams were within one run at 7-6 and had the tying and winning runs on base when the Blackstone shortstop made a great play on a Kennedy Harper grounder destined for left field to end the game.

"They jumped out early on us and that was really the difference," Buckley said. "We had opportunities all day long. We had 13 hits and we stranded 10 runners on base, but we could not come up with a base hit when we needed to."

Buckley and her team could take some solace in the fact that their first defeat of the season came to an outstanding (18-3) Blackstone team.

"They are a very good team and the Blackstone shortstop (Bella Picard) is the best high school softball player I have ever seen," Buckley said. "We did a pretty good job of containing her at the plate, holding her to just a double, but she made some incredible plays in the field, including ranging over to third base to make a great play for the last out on Kennedy."

"Jenn Elwell (of Shawsheen) is the best pitcher I have ever seen, but she is the best player."

The loss to Blackstone could not diminish the tremendous accomplishment of the Lady Rams undefeated regular season, and Buckley was very proud of her team's accomplishment.

"I could not be prouder. If you told me at the beginning of the year we would be undefeated I would not have believed it, and we did it with something like 16 different lineups," Buckley said. "We had players switching positions due to injury and everyone was willing to do whatever it took to help the team. That was the special part of this season for me. It was different kids stepping up in every game to help the team."

In recognition of their great season, several Lady Rams were honored as CAC All-Stars. Tewksbury residents Stephanie Champoux, Meghan Walsh and Ari Medeiros were all named league all-stars, while for the second year in a row, pitcher Emily Hamilton of Tewksbury was named MVP of the league.

Catholic Memorial too good

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

BILLERICA – It is difficult to describe the challenge that the Shawsheen Tech Boys Lacrosse team faces every season in the Division 2 East Tournament.

The best analogy might be to consider a college football team like Boston College, a team from a mediocre ACC Conference. Imagine for a moment that BC put together a great season to win their mediocre conference, but instead of being rewarded with a trip to a bowl game against a comparable opponent, they were instead rewarded with a game against a top flight NFL team.

They would have no chance, right? Not because they are not a good team. They may in fact be an excellent team, but they simply are not equipped or talented enough to take on an NFL team. They are literally not in the same league.

That is kind of what it is like for Shawsheen. They are an excellent team. And year after year they dominate their league, made up of Division 3 opponents. And then they head off to the Division 2 East Tournament where they routinely face a Division 2 powerhouse that they have virtually no chance of beating.

That was the case once again this years for the Rams, who despite having another tremendous season, including winning their seventh straight CAC title and their second straight Massachusetts State Vocational championship, were thumped on Tuesday evening on their home field by Catholic Memorial in the preliminary round of the Division 2 East Tournament, losing by a score of 21-3.

The 15th seeded Rams wrapped up their season with a record of 15-6, with #18 seed CM improved to 11-9 and moved on to the first round where they will take on Marblehead.

"I am not sure how much longer it is going to take to drop us to the Division 3 Tournament where I feel like we could compete," Shawsheen coach Chuck Baker said. "Athletic Director Al (Costabile) and I talked about it again this year. Realistically there is no good draw for us in Division 2. We are a good team, but we are not at that level."

Baker is not making excuses for his team, as he was also very willing acknowledge that regardless of the opponent, his team did not play up to their capabilities in this game.

"I think our guys were already out of the game before it even started once they got a look at them in warm ups," Baker said. "It was kind of disappointing that we did not play like a true Shawsheen team. We were not physical at all and we did not play like we are capable of playing."

"Should we have won the game? No, they were the better team, but I wish we would have played with a little more pride."

The Rams, who were an excellent play making team all season long, got away from had led them to their great season, causing them to fall into a 9-0 first quarter hole that they could not recover from.

"We got away from the fundamentals," Baker said. "It was like we were trying to tie the game with one goal. We were rushing our transition game, and forcing the ball instead of making good passes."

As disappointing as it was for Baker and his team to lose in such lopsided fashion, especially in a game where they gave less than their best effort, it could not diminish the pride that Baker took in all his team accomplished this season,

CM ends Rams Boys Lax season

iors, for the past four years. "It was a tough way for the kids to go out after they played so great all year," Baker said. "They did such a great job all season of showing what it means to play for Shawsheen and living up to the expectations that we have for them, so it was tough to see them go out like this."

It was especially tough for Baker to see his senior class go out the way they did, after the brilliant seasons and careers they had for the Rams, winning a league championship every year they were in high school.

Senior captains Tim Hunt of Wilmington (80 goals, 49 assists, 129 points) and Ryan Capraro of Tewksbury (65-48-113) led the way offensively for the Rams, but they were not alone in helping to lead the team on and off the field.

Captain Keenan Beraldi (22-33-55) of Wilmington, along with Jay Rossetti and captain Nolan Gaffey of Wilmington and Joe Ferri and Scott Dennehy made up a great senior class that gave Baker everything he could have hoped for.

"They certainly lived up to the whole family thing that we have her at Shawsheen," Baker said. "They came into this season as seniors with a boat load of underclassmen. I have talked to other coaches who have told me about varsity players who would shun the JV players. That was never the case with these guys."

"We had freshmen who would not even talk at the beginning of the year, but by the end of the year were able to joke with the seniors. They were great teammates to the younger players and they will be very tough to replace."

Winchester firefighter to compete in Death Race

By RYAN LAROCHE

Competing in a race that asks you to only compete if you've "lived a full life" is probably a sign that it won't be an easy race. Such is the Spartan Death Race in Pittsfield, VT.

The race combines marathons, triathlons, ultra marathons into one psychotic 48 hour (or longer) event that tests competitors physically, emotionally and mentally.

Unlike marathons and triathlons where the finish line is clearly marked, the Spartan Death Race offers no such luxury. As the Spartan Death Race website www.youmaydie.com <<http://www.youmaydie.com>> (another sign that this won't be a walk in the park) states, "For an endurance athlete, not knowing where the light is at the end of the tunnel can be sheer torture."

That's just one of the many mental aspects to the race. Competitors don't just run, swim or climb. During the 40-mile course, they may be asked to chop wood for two-hours, carry a 20 pound stump around for hours, lift 10-30 pound rocks for five-hours, build a fire, cut a bushel of onions, crawl through mud under barbed wire, or, after 20-hours of racing, memorize the names of the first 10 U.S. Presidents or a Bible verse, hike to the top of a mountain and recite them back in order (and do it again if you fail).

This is not for the weak of heart. Who would compete in such a crazy, psychotic stunt? 200 of the world's toughest and seasoned endurance athletes is who. Amazingly, even with the caliber of athletes who compete in the Spartan Death Race, only 15 percent on average even finish the race. With all the challenges, this race could last anywhere from 24-48 hours or more. And not that it needs to be said, but the race is run regardless of the weather.

Knowing all this, could you compete in this race? Joshua Fiore, a former Army medic and current Winchester firefighter, could. And he will on June 21. The race starts at 5 a.m. Last year's race lasted 67 hours. Registration is still open, so get some sleep if you're thinking of entering. 67 hours is a long time.

Fiore recently completed a training camp for the death race, which lasted 24 hours (or about half the length of the actual race). There were 12 people who started the camp with him. Only nine survived including Fiore and two women. No, the Spartan Death Race is not just for men. In fact, Fiore called the two women at the training camp "the toughest women I've ever met."

Being a former Army medic and current firefighter should help Fiore survive the race, though not necessarily complete it.

"Being a firefighter should help," Fiore said. "You have to assess situations and some obstacles require teamwork."

Why would a sane person compete in such a race, where the chance of bodily harm is great? Fiore said he's doing this for the Mass. Aggression Research Center in Bridgewater. They train teachers and principals all over the state to deal with bullying in school. Visit the website http://alumni.bridgew.edu/s/65/OneCol.aspx?sid=65&pgid=863&gid=1&cid=1693&ecid=1693&post_id=0 for details on how to donate to Fiore's cause.

He says, "The challenges that I am about to face don't compare to the hardships that children go through when it comes to BULLYING! That is why I have decided to use this great challenge as a way of raising money for an AMAZING group called M.A.R.C. (Massachusetts Aggression Reduction Center). Rather than acting reactively towards bullying and violence in the schools, M.A.R.C. creates programs that teachers, principals, and other school officials can use PROAC-

"FAST AND FURIOUS 6"

GRADE: **

"Fast & Furious 6" is a fun summer thrill ride as long as director Justin Lin keeps the action flowing in the high speed lane. When the movie hits the brakes to deal with relationships, it hits a series of speed bumps.

No other film franchise comes to mind as having gone through so many big changes. It started a dozen years ago with "The Fast and the Furious," the story of an undercover cop infiltrating the Los Angeles street-racer world to stop a hijacking ring. These days, the team of fast-driving criminals, paced by Toretto (Vin Diesel) and ex-cop Brian (Paul Walker), fight international terrorists.

This time, it's a villain named Shaw (Luke Evans) who has put together his own fast-driving crew to steal major weapons parts across Europe and Asia. When he proves too elusive for Agent Luke Hobbs (Dwayne Johnson), the lawman gets Toretto to round up the gang for another ride. He brings a little incentive. Toretto's true love, Letty (Michelle Rodriguez), who was supposed to have died in "Fast & Furious" - the series' fourth edition in 2009 - is alive.

It's that emotional element that puts the brakes on "F&F6." Diesel doesn't have the acting chops to make that part of the story seem real.

The plot device that brings Letty back into the picture keeps Rodriguez from doing much emotionally.

Toretto and Letty are the least interesting characters in the movie. The tech-savvy Tej, as played by Chris "Ludacris" Bridges, and the penny-pinching millionaire, Roman (Tyrese Gibson), are so colorfully and fully formed they could easily star in their own fast car franchise.

The strength of the franchise has always been the action scenes. Whether it's a break-neck race through the crowded streets of London or a showdown between a car and a tank, this is when the movie explodes with extreme stunts.

"Fast and Furious 6" is the kind of movie where logic should be left at home. The action scenes are so big and over the top that, at times, they are laughable, such as a high-flying save by Toretto between two interstate bridges.

Whether it's the exaggerated action scenes or the way this franchise has morphed into an international thriller, the movies remain popular. There will be a seventh installment of this high-octane series.

"STAR TREK: INTO DARKNESS"

GRADE: ****

J.J. Abrams' Star Trek Into Darkness is an exhilarating ride, an action-packed film that completes the upgrade of the science fiction franchise into a made-for-cinema space adventure for modern audiences.

Abrams and Star Trek screenwriters Roberto Orci and Alex Kurtzman with Damon Lindelof, provide Into Darkness with the kind of memorable antagonist that even their initial and successful foray into the Star Trek universe lacked. Their villain is a wayward Star Fleet super-soldier with his own agenda named John Harrison, played to chilling and fun effect by Benedict Cumberbatch. (As for his rumored identity, consider it one of the many surprises the film has in store.)

Into Darkness doesn't even open with an introduction to Harrison, rather it's Captain Kirk (Chris Pine) and Dr. "Bones" McCoy (Karl Urban) fleeing from an angry and primitive alien tribe in a failed undercover visit to their planet, while Mr. Spock (Zachary Quinto) attempts to prevent a massive volcanic eruption that will wipe out their civilization.

After this misadventure Harrison shows up, at first offering aid to a father in distress in London while later using that goodwill to strike back at others. He proves to be even more dangerous and cunning after a surprise attack on Star Fleet headquarters, so Kirk and crew are dispatched to find and kill the genetically modified terrorist, who's now hiding on a remote planet inside Klingon territory.

Kirk captures the criminal and opts to spare his life so that he may instead face a trial, only to learn that his decision may be part of Harrison's larger plan, and that who he thought was the enemy may be his key to survival. Or not.

There's no shortage of ship-to-ship space battles, hand-to-hand combat, and spectacular crashes and disasters, as Abrams brings an even larger scale to Into Darkness than he did with Star Trek. The visual effects are amazing, and his pacing is perfect for a summer movie, pushing the film forward with action and thrills.

This time around there's a comfort level among the performers, taking on their iconic roles for a second time and working from a script that has moved beyond introductions and reacquaintances for audiences.

This is as big and bold as any Star Trek yet.

Over 120 artists, music, food and more Festival by the Lake fun for entire family June 8

The Wakefield Center Neighborhood Association will hold its 33rd annual Festival by the Lake. This year's Festival is scheduled for Saturday, June 8, from 10 am to 4 pm on Wakefield's Lower Common. In case of rain, the Festival will be postponed to Saturday, June 15.

The Festival by the Lake promises to be one of the highlights of the Wakefield summer season. With an expected 120 talented artists and crafters exhibiting, numerous local non-profit organizations in attendance, live music from the historic bandstand, delicious food, and 50/50 raffles, it promises to be a memorable day.

The popular children's activities area will again be run by Parents of Tots and will feature bouncy houses, the Rolling Railroad ride, games, face painting, balloon animals and more.

Arts & Crafts

As one of the largest craft events in the area, the Festival draws some of the finest craftspeople from throughout New England and it attracts visitors from as far away as Maine and New York.

Besides a variety of high quality, hand-made arts and crafts, thousands of visitors also enjoy the children's entertainments, non-profit organizations' displays, live music, fine food, beautiful Lake Quannapowitt, and wonderful New England weather.

Entertainment

Before noon, there will be the Jazz sounds of Audie Bridges and his band. Audie has been a favorite of the festival for many years.

In the afternoon, Steve Hurl of the band Jumpin' Juba will be featured, playing blues mixed with many flavors of American "roots" music: New Orleans inspired swamp rock, classic boogie-woogie, folk, Memphis rock & roll, and a mix of everything from calypso to country.

Delicious food

The WCNA will once again provide delicious fresh-cooked grilled burgers, specialty sandwiches, salads, desserts, and a variety of snacks and refreshing cold drinks.

WCNA projects

The Festival provides funding WCNA's civic improvement projects. Our current project is the improvement of the tree lighting on the Upper Common.

WCNA annual events

Every year, the WCNA hosts The Festival by the Lake, The Easter Egg Hunt, and The Lighting of the Lights. These three annual events, in addition to all the beautification projects, are the organization's gifts to the Town of Wakefield.

For information about the Festival by the Lake or the WCNA, visit wcna.org.

WISH, TO BE GRANTED (WINCHESTER)

"The Board of Selectmen approved a Section 319 Nonpoint Source Pollution Grant Program application with the understanding that the town would provide a 40 percent match to the cost for the design and construction of a bioretention basin," notes the Winchester edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Said basin could be used to retrofit existing untreated drainage systems.

"In the past, the town participated in a Section 604b Water Quality Management Planning Grant last year to identify 'green' stormwater treatment devices. Of all the locations studied, the project identified the Jenks Center parking lot as having the most potential for such a project.

"A conceptual design for a bioretention basin was developed. This type of basin is an attractively landscaped surface depression designed to slow and filter stormwater runoff. It isn't designed to hold water for a long period of time.

"The town was recently notified by the Mystic River Watershed Association (MyRWA) that the Section 319 Nonpoint Source Pollution Grant was available to address the prevention, control and abatement of non-point source pollution. The grant could be used to fund the final design and construction of the bioretention basin.

"With the cost being $66,000, the town would be asked to contribute $26,400 (40 percent). The money doesn't have to be cash - it can be in-kind services, other grants or other funding. Currently, the town engineer's office is preparing a grant application and is identifying various eligible in-kind services and other grant sources that could contribute to the match.

"With the application due May 31, Assistant Town Engineer Matt Shuman asked the selectmen to provide a letter indicating that a request for funding would be placed before Town Meeting, if required, to make up any deficit between the 319 grant and the other in-kind services and funds obtained.

"Shuman felt that letter would satisfy the match requirements of the grant application. If so, funds would have to be in place before a contract could be entered (possibly Dec. 1), but would not have to be voted by Town Meeting prior to submitting the application."

WISHES GRANTED (WILMINGTON)

"At the ... Board of Selectmen meeting, the board voted to approve the collective bargaining agreement between the town and the New England Police Benevolent Association, Local 13, Supervisor's Union for July 2013 - June 30 2014.

"According to Jeffrey Hull, town manager, the agreement notes the following: The contract is valid for one year in length; a fourth salary step was added to the current compensation schedule for police sergeants and lieutenants rather than three step compensation schedule currently used; there was no change made to the base pay rates for each step in the compensation schedule for the period of this one-year agreement; the methods by which employees may be tested when reasonable suspicion exists for the presence of non-prescription drugs, controlled substances or alcohol were expanded; language in the contract that addresses the police educational incentive plan was clarified..."

FUND TIMES (WAKEFIELD)

"Are you thinking about starting a scholarship fund through the Citizens' Scholarship Foundation of Wakefield?" notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Scholarship funds can be established for a variety of reasons. You can honor or memorialize a family member or members, a teacher, coach, or mentor, or you can establish a fund in your own name to start your own legacy. Funds can also be established in the name of a business or organization... a CSF of Wakefield fund is truly a gift that keeps on giving!

"Currently, an initial contribution in the amount of $500 is required to start a fund, along with the promise of future yearly contributions of at least $500 until the fund reaches permanency at $5,000. A minimum principal balance of $5,000 is required before any award can be made from the income earned on the endowment fund.

"These minimum requirements will change on July 1, 2013. After that date, an initial contribution of $750 will be required, along with the promise of yearly contributions of at least $750. Funds established on or after July 1, 2013, will reach Permanency when their minimum principal balances reach $7,500. This change will not affect any Permanent or Accumulating Funds that were established before July 1, 2013..."

To start a fund, or for more info, please contact CSF of Wakefield via 781-245-4890, csfowakefield@earthlink.net or www.csfowakefield.org.

•Under Armour, Inc. (NYSE: UA) and Corrigan Sports Enterprises, Inc. announced today the rosters for the 2013 Under Armour All-America Lacrosse Classic. Eighty-eight of the nation's top boys and girls high school seniors have been selected to the sport's highest honor and will play in the eighth annual Under Armour All-America Lacrosse Classic on Saturday, July 6 at Towson University's Johnny Unitas Stadium in Towson, MD.

Named to the women's team is JILLIAN DOHERTY, A MIDFIELDER FROM READING WHO ATTENDS VANDERBILT.

The 2013 Under Armour All-America rosters are once again filled with unparalleled talent recognized by top NCAA Division I universities. The University of Maryland and Syracuse men's lacrosse programs both have six incoming recruits from this year's All-America roster. The University of Virginia's women's team led the nation with five incoming freshmen making the esteemed list. Also, the University of Southern California and Virginia Tech women's programs signed their first ever Under Armour All-Americans.

Under Armour All-Americans are selected by a panel of lacrosse experts from Inside Lacrosse Magazine. The year-long selection process includes input from college and high school coaches from across the country as well as nominations from the public.

The selected high-school seniors will experience a weekend of events that begins on Thursday, July 4 and culminates with the Under Armour All-America Girls Classic on Saturday, July 6 at 5PM followed by the Boys Classic at 8PM. •The Stonehill College women's track and field team finished in 21st place after the completion of the New England Outdoor Track and Field Championships, hosted by Stonehill College at W.B. Mason in Easton, Mass.

Stonehill earned two points on the final day of the meet to bring its total to 14 points for the three-day competition. The University of Rhode Island took the top spot in the competition after totaling 91.50 points, while UMass Amherst and UMass Lowell scored 80 points apiece to tie for second. The University of New Haven (4th, 60.50) and Northeastern University (5th, 57.50) rounded out the top-five.

SENIOR CAROLINE MCBRIDE (NORTH READING, MASS. / NORTH READING) and junior Chelsea Bishop (Suffield, Conn./Suffield) earned All-New England recognition after they finished third and fourth respectively in the 10,000-meter race.

Anderson recorded a time of 4:40.75 to place 19th in the event.

Stonehill's 4x800 relay team of Anderson, ERIN RIELLY (BURLINGTON, MASS./BURLINGTON), Melissa Ulcena (Billerica, Mass./Billerica), and Elizabeth LaRegina (New Fairfield, Conn./New Fairfield) finished 12th with a time of 9:23.57.

Freshman Trisha Pierson (East Hanover, N.J./Hanover Park) was the final competitor of the day for Stonehill. Pierson posted a 16th place finish with a throw of 117-06.

New England Championship's marks the end of the 2013 outdoor season for Stonehill.

•Freshman Sean Buckland (Lynn, MA) fired a complete-game three-hit shutout, to lead Salem State to the 2013 Massachusetts State Collegiate Athletic Conference Baseball Championship at the Central Campus Baseball Field. The Vikings (25-13) defeated the Westfield State Owls, 5-0 to claim the program's second MASCAC Tournament title, and first since 2006.

Buckland turned in a stellar performance, allowing just three hits, with two walks, and had four strikeouts to help the Vikings complete a three-game sweep in the tournament. Salem State got going quickly as Kevin Salines (Melrose, MA) singled, stole second and came home on a hit by Brett Cahill (Gloucester, MA) in the bottom of the first.

Owls' starter John Silva (Rehoboth, MA) was replaced by Pete Liimatainen (West Barnstable, MA) in the third inning after balking STEVE BUITKUS (READING, MA) to third, after the senior captain had singled and stole second. Salines delivered an RBI single to plate Buitkus, and the Vikings led 2-0. Silva pitched two innings, and gave up two runs on four hits with two strikeouts.

Buckland did not allow a base runner until the fourth, when Andrew Medeiros (Acushnet, MA) doubled deep to left. However, after a steal by Medeiros, and an intentional walk to Kevin Greene (Worcester, MA) put runners on the corners, Buckland worked out of the jam when Salem State first baseman Matt Burgess (Kingston, MA) ended the threat when he made a nice over the shoulder catch on a ball hit into foul territory behind the first base bag.

VIKINGS' RIGHT FIELDER STEVE BUITKUS (READING, MA) was named the MVP of the MASCAC Tournament, after going 2-4 with a run and two stolen bases. Salines went 3-3 from the plate while scoring twice.

Race

from S-1

TIVELY."

Fiore will use what he learned at the training camp to push him through the death race. He said the camp fired him up, but also made him more cautious.

His goal is to complete the course. "I'm in it for the long haul," he said.

His fellow firefighters haven't said too much about Fiore's competing in the race. Fire Chief John Nash basically told him to come back in one piece.

Fiore is no stranger to tests of endurance. He ran the Boston Marathon in the past for the Jimmy Fund. He's also a good swimmer, though said he hadn't been in a pool recently. If something were to happen on the course, multiple state troopers and medics are stationed throughout. Plus, Fiore's own background as a medic and paramedic will be of much help. He can treat a sprain or spot warning signs of dehydration, heat exhaustion, etc.

No man is an island, and Fiore will not be alone on the course. He has a support system who'll be waiting for him as he competes. He said they could follow him around, but that's usually not the case.

Beside running the race for M.A.R.C. (and himself), he's also running for his nine-year old son. He said he hopes his son will be able to come (school should be out by then). Together, they've competed in charity runs. The youngster has run as many as 2.5 miles.

"It would be such a boost to see him if he comes," Fiore said about his son potentially showing up.

Of course, Fiore's aware that in a few years it may be him going to cheer on his son. "He has my sense of adventure."

Since he hasn't even run yet, Fiore hasn't decided if he'd come back for another try. He said that if he doesn't run again, he'd love to volunteer as a medic.

While preparing for the race, he learned that most people drop out within the first 24 hours. His own experience at training camp showed him how tough that first day is. He said his you-know-what was dragging before sunrise, but he got energy when the sun came up.

"We're solar powered." Finishing the course takes more than brut strength (though that probably helps); it takes dedication.

"You just have to keep going," Fiore noted. "I won't be wearing a watch; I don't want to know how long I've been out there."

Unfortunately, Fiore hasn't met anyone who's finished, so he has no inspiration other than his own desire to finish. If he's fortunate enough to get that far, he would receive a skull trophy for his accomplishment (a little macabre perhaps). Not that it would matter to him.

"The trophy doesn't matter," he said. "It's more the feeling of accomplishment."

Fiore should be prepared for anything. As the website says, "The adventure starts when everything goes wrong."

Four Cheese Scalloped Potatoes

Stephanie Smith is going to show you how to make her special four cheese scalloped potatoes. A true comfort food, these potatoes will satisfy your need for cheese as they are smothered in a four-cheese sauce consisting of Swiss, cheddar, cream cheese, and Parmesan. The potatoes are sliced to perfection using a mandolin, no not the instrument, the kitchen tool that allows uniform cuts to ensure an even cook time.

This recipe is a two-for-one, as "you can use the same sauce to make a macaroni and cheese," Smith explains. A breeze to put together, the sauce takes all of five minutes to melt down and thicken. It begins with a simple roux of flour, butter and garlic. A roux is a thick base made up of one-part fat and one-part flour. You can

Ingredients

- 3-5 potatoes
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 2 cloves garlic
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 2 ½ cups milk
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon pepper
- 1 cup cheddar cheese
- 1 cup Swiss cheese
- 8 ounces (one small container) garlic cream cheese
- ½ cup Parmesan cheese
- 2 tablespoons parsley

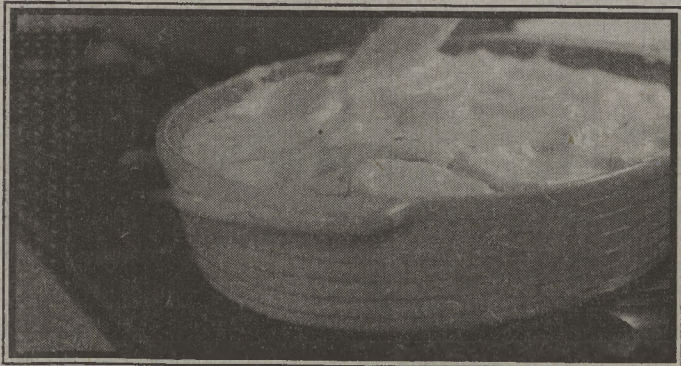

See the video on our website
food.homenewshere.com

use butter or oil. Simply heat milk, toss in the cheese, and stir it for five minutes. These potatoes are a perfect side dish for a large steak, and the golden brown crispy cheese topping will look as good as it tastes.

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Peel and wash the potatoes. Slice the potatoes in uniform. Use either a mandolin or a knife.
2. In a medium-large pot, melt 3 tablespoons of butter. Once melted, combine garlic and flour to create the roux. Mix these ingredients together well until a "paste" is developed.

3. Add the 2 ½ cups of milk to the roux. Bring to a rapid boil, and then reduce the heat to medium-low to simmer for 3-5 minutes. Stir continuously to avoid burning the milk.
4. Add salt and pepper.
5. Preheat the oven to 350°F.
6. Begin to add the cheeses. 1 cup shredded cheddar, 1 cup shredded Swiss, and garlic cream cheese. Save the Parmesan for just before the oven.
7. Mix the cheeses together until they are melted all the way, and the mixture becomes a thick cheese sauce.
8. In a greased casserole dish, lay one layer of potatoes down. They do not need to be perfectly flat on the pan. Pour a layer of cheese sauce over the potatoes. Continue to alternate until the potatoes are all used. Make sure to have the top layer be the cheese sauce. This will become golden brown and crispy.
9. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese on top, and garnish with parsley.
10. Bake at 350°F for 90 minutes, or until potatoes are fork tender.

Understanding and fighting hypertension go hand in hand

Hypertension, often referred to as high blood pressure, affects millions of people across the globe. According to the American Heart Association, more than 76 million adults in the United States alone have been diagnosed with high blood pressure. But even children and teens can suffer from hypertension, making it a formidable but largely preventable foe.

Understanding high blood pressure, or HBP, may encourage adults and children alike to take steps to maintain a healthy blood pressure, which can reduce their risk of heart attack, stroke and kidney disease.

What is HBP?

HBP is often associated with men and women who are considered to be constantly on edge, nervous or hyperactive. But even laid back men, women and children can suffer from HBP. As a person's heart beats, it creates pressure that pushes blood through the body's arteries and veins. Those arteries are made of muscle and a semi-flexible tissue that stretches when the blood is pumped through them. The more forcefully that blood is pumped, the more that flexible tissue is stretched. When the tissue is stretched too much, a person is at an increased risk of suffering from a host of problems, including blood clots, plaque buildup that can lead to heart attack and stroke, and tissue and organ damage from arteries that have narrowed or become blocked.

Are there symptoms of HBP?

The AHA notes that HBP is typically devoid of symptoms. So people suffering from HBP may not know it if they have not routinely had their blood pressure checked. Over the years many myths have prevailed regarding HBP. Such myths can be dangerous, giving people a false sense of security regarding their blood pressure. For example, in the early 1900s it was assumed that people with high blood pressure experienced more frequent headaches than those with healthy blood pressure. However, a study published in the journal Neurology found that people with high blood pressure were significantly less likely to have headaches than those with healthy pressure readings. Nosebleeds have also been linked to high blood pressure, but one study found that 83 percent of patients treated for high blood pressure did not suffer from nosebleeds.

Debunking such myths is important, as it further emphasizes the need to receive routine blood pressure readings as the only reliable means for men, women and children to determine if they have high, low or healthy blood pressure. Anyone experiencing frequent headaches or nosebleeds should consult a physician but should not assume such occurrences are a byproduct of high blood pressure.

Can certain foods help reduce high blood pressure?

One rumor concerning HBP actually has some merit. A heart-healthy diet that includes the following foods can help men, women and children manage their blood pressure and reduce HBP if necessary:

* Blueberries: Blueberries contain anthocyanin, a natural compound that a recent study published in the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition found can protect the body against HBP.

* Whole grain cereal: A Harvard University study found that whole grain cereals that are high in fiber can reduce a person's risk of developing HBP.

* Beet juice: A study from British researchers published by the AHA in its journal Hypertension found that a glass of beet juice can lower blood pressure in a matter of hours.

* Low-fat dairy products: A 2008 study that examined nearly 30,000 women at an average age of 54 found that those who consumed the most low-fat dairy products, including skim or low-fat milk, were significantly less likely to develop high blood pressure than those who consumed dairy products that were high in fat.

HBP is a common problem that affects millions of people of all ages across the globe. There are several ways men, women and children can reduce their risk of HBP and lower their blood pressure if it's already high. T

What's behind female hair loss

While baldness is an issue most often associated with men, women can suffer from hair loss as well, and you may be surprised to learn just how prevalent the condition is.

Hair loss, or alopecia, can affect the entire body and may be a hereditary condition or a side effect of medications or physical or psychological ailments. Just about anyone can experience hair loss.

Research indicates as many as two-thirds of all women experience hair loss at some point. You may notice strands of hair in the trap at the bottom of the shower drain or caught in your hairbrush. It's normal to lose 50 to 100 hairs a day. But when hair loss is pronounced, either by falling out in clumps or thinning conspicuously, it may be indicative of a more serious medical condition.

Hair production occurs in cycles. The scalp and hair can be compared to a garden. When the soil condition is not perfect, a garden will not grow properly. The same can be said for the scalp. Medications, illnesses, infections, or chemicals used on the head or body can disrupt the cycle and cause hair to stop growing properly. This can eventually lead to hair loss. Most women who experience hair loss notice it in their 50s or 60s, but doctors note it can happen at any age. Here are some of the primary causes of hair loss.

* Telogen effluvium: This is a condition that takes place after pregnancy, major surgeries or even after drastic weight loss. When a woman is experiencing telogen effluvium, her hair shifts more quickly from the growing stage (anagen) to the transition stage (catagen) to the shedding stage (telogen). Typically, women experiencing telogen effluvium will notice hair loss between six weeks and three months after a stressful event, and women may have to be patient and wait for hair loss to slow down. If you've determined the hair loss is from medication, your doctor may be able to lower the dosage or switch drugs.

* Hypothyroidism: Hair loss can be a byproduct of an underactive thyroid. That's because, in addition to regulating your basal metabolic rate, the thyroid also is responsible for the growth of hair, skin and nails. If you don't have enough of the thyroid hormone, you may notice changes in the body, such as hair loss. Blood tests can be given to test for hypothyroidism.

* Anemia: Anemia is caused by iron deficiency and results in insufficient numbers of red blood cells to transport oxygen through the body. Iron deficiency anemia can cause weakness, pale skin, fatigue, headaches, and hair loss. Increasing iron in the diet through leafy greens, fortified cereals and beans can help.

on both sides of the fireplace.

A cased opening marks the transition from the dining area to the flat-ceilinged kitchen. Open shelves line the wall above the sink and its long counter. While the kitchen is large, the basic work triangle of sink-stove-refrigerator is designed to minimize steps. The nook is large enough to accommodate a good-sized table, and a covered patio is easily accessible through sliding glass doors.

Another, more private, covered patio nestles into a recess just outside the spacious owners' suite. A hot tub would fit in nicely here, conveniently close to the suite's bathroom. Bedroom two, on the other side of the kitchen, has a door into the main bathroom. The Fairheart's third bedroom is upstairs, near a bathroom, plenty of storage space, and a loft that overlooks the great room.

The National Association for Realtors says that, despite floundering sales, there are fewer foreclosed homes available now than in recent years. Distressed homes - foreclosures and short sales sold at deep discounts - accounted for 25 percent of homes sales in May of 2012. That figure is down from 28 percent in April and 31 percent in May of 2011.

While home sales have increased, money is still tight in the building industry and among home buyers. As such, instead of over-the-top features in homes that were once becoming the norm, builders are now focusing on more value-conscious designs and offerings. The list of add-ons also has been reduced.

So what can buyers expect to live without when buying a newly constructed home? Here are a few of the common features that are falling by the wayside.

* Sunrooms: Although the "bring-the-outside-in" movement was once strong, builders are now focusing on home features that immediately add value and attract the eye of buyers. Therefore, they're putting their resources into linen closets and laundry rooms while de-emphasizing sunrooms.

* Extended ceiling heights: It can take a lot of energy to heat rooms with 15-foot ceilings. As a result, grandiose family rooms and two-story foyers are less attractive to buyers focused on saving money. Homeowners want spaces that are easier to heat and cool.

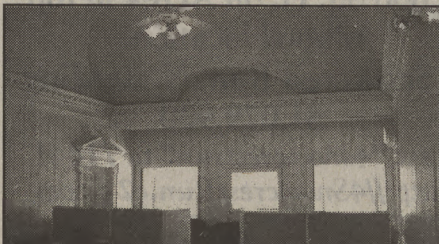

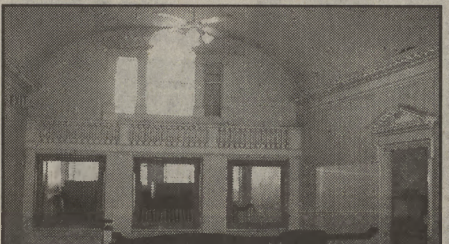

* Luxury bathrooms: Many private residence luxury bathrooms rival those found at popular 4-star hotels. But luxury bathrooms are being phased out in favor of less expensive, more practical options.

* Outdoor kitchens: Although entertaining at home is one way to keep budgets in check, some homeowners have realized they don't need a complete backyard kitchen with a pizza oven and brick fireplace in order to host guests. According to a survey from the National Association of Home Builders, outdoor kitchens are the second least-likely feature to be included in homes built in 2012.

* Media rooms: Individuals certainly love their gadgets, but many of these gadgets have become smaller and more portable. That reduces the need for giant home theaters and gaming spaces.

This Weeks Sampler: Glen Eden

Glen Eden exudes warmth, Craftsman charm

The barn doors fronting the Fairheart give this ranch-style home a fresh face that calls for a second look. These wide doors slide together and can be latched closed to cover the great room's window wall. Families that love barns will surely resonate with this feature, but the doors also offer an extraordinary level of privacy, plus secure window protection in stormy weather.

This façade faces the street, but the main entry is around to the right. Family members who park in the garage can enter via the pass-through utility room near the kitchen.

Gathering spaces flow together at the core of this plan. Nothing separates the vaulted living room and dining area, where the ceiling soars up from the entry to a central apex, then slopes down toward the wood-burning fireplace. Windows fill most of the front wall, and more light spills in through wide sidelights flanking the front door, and small windows

Home features that are disappearing

There is no denying the profound impact that the recession has had on the real estate industry. For the last several years, the real estate market went from booming to one characterized by homes sitting on the market for months on end. New home sales also have been conservative, and builders are cutting back on some offerings that were once commonplace.
